Visibility Rising at Airport, Early Service Resumption Seen

LONDON (AP) — The worst smog in a decade loosened its lethal four-day grip on London today, leaving 106 known dead and more than 1,000 in hospitals.

Dense patches persisted in parts of the British capital, but in most places the sun finally seeped wanly through a thin blue haze in mid-morning.

"London is like an oasis, completely ringed by a slowly clearing fog belt," said a spokesman for the British Automobile Association.

Visibility rose to 150 yards at London Airport, and weathermen said it should increase to an operational 2,000 yards later. At midday, not one civil aircraft had been able to get in or out of the airport in 88 hours.

Still fogbound in the Thames Estuary, downriver from London, were more than 170 ships, many carrying Christmas foodstuffs badly needed in the nation's shops.

Commuter trains into London were up to 20 minutes late during the early morning rush hour. Main line trains on longer hauls ran up to 3 1/2 hours behind schedule.

Heavy fog still was reported in the eastern counties of Norfolk and Suffolk, with visibility on the roads averaging 25 yards. Ice on highways in many areas also made driving hazardous.

Hazy sunshine was forecast in most parts of the British Isles until nightfall. The prediction was that frost and fog would return during the night in patches in the southeastern part of the country.

Mild, cloudy weather, with some rain or drizzle, is expected to set in Saturday.

The smog settled in Monday night and eased once for a few hours Thursday. But Thursday night London groaned to a standstill again as the black pall descended.

Buses at Depots Except for a few stragglers, all the city's buses returned to their depots by 10:30 p.m., two hours before normal quitting time. Train schedules remained in chaos.

Even in the brightly lit West End, people groped their way through the shrouded shopping streets.

At the height of it all, Sir Winston Churchill went out to dine. The 88-year-old war leader spent 2 1/2 hours at the Savoy Hotel with friends of the Other Club, an exclusive dining group he helped found 51 years ago. He came out in the muck with a smile and a "V" sign.

Outside London, dozens of automobile accidents occurred on icy roads, and fog still blanketed many parts of the country. Traffic fatalities were surprisingly few because more and more drivers left their automobiles at home.

Scotland Yard attributed 30 more cases of sudden death in the London area on Thursday to smog. It brought the total since Monday to 90. Most of the victims died from aggravated heart or chest conditions.

Nearly 800 other smog cases were hospitalized. Recalling previous years, authorities feared that many of them would die.

Not Surprising Adenauer's impending retirement did not particularly surprise West German politicians. He has been under pressure for some time from his own party to relinquish the government reins to a younger man. He has been chancellor for 13 years, since the West German Republic was inaugurated.

Last year, after his party lost its parliamentary majority and had to form a coalition with the Free Democrats, Adenauer said he would retire in sufficient time before the 1965 general election to give his successor a chance to get used to his office. However, Adenauer refused to set a date for his retirement.

Authoritative Christian Democratic sources say his successor probably will be the vice chancellor and economics minister, Ludwig Erhard, known as the father of West Germany's "miracle" postwar recovery.

Wiley to Live In Washington WASHINGTON (AP)—Defeated Sen. Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., has indicated he will remain in Washington after his term expires next month.

The 78-year-old senator, a veteran of four terms, sent his last newsletter to constituents Thursday, describing it as "Christmas Greetings from 2122 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Washington, which will be our address from now on."

Wiley was beaten in Nov. 6 balloting by Democratic Gov. Gaylord Nelson.

Pravda Asks Action to Liquidate U. S. Bases MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Communist party paper Pravda called today for negotiations to liquidate American military bases around the Soviet Union.

The article, by the paper's authoritative diplomatic observer Yuri Zhukov, was the first important Soviet statement on U.S. overseas bases since President Kennedy rejected Soviet Premier Khrushchev's demand for a swap of Soviet rocket bases in Cuba for U.S. bases in Turkey.

Zhukov repeated standard Soviet charges—that the bases are provocations against the Soviet Union, that they have outlived their usefulness, and that they only serve to prop up unpopular regimes.

Miss Charlene Fischer, 19, one of the tellers, described what happened: "One of them told us to stand back. Then he told the manager to go to the vault with him. They took all the currency. Then they locked us in the vault."

Miss Fischer said they were in the vault about two or three minutes. Five bank employees and one customer were in the bank at the time of the robbery.

Kennedy on Tour of U. S. Air Bases

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—President Kennedy arrived at Offutt Air Force Base today to visit the Strategic Air Command underground command post and to be briefed on the U.S. nuclear war plan.

Kennedy was met by Gen. Thomas S. Power, SAC commander, and vice Adm. Roy L. Johnson, deputy director of the joint strategic target planning staff, of which Power also is chief.

Also on hand to greet the President were Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and defense dignitaries whose plane landed a few minutes before the President's, and Nebraska's Gov. Frank Morrison.

This was the first leg of a three-day trip that also will take the President to top-secret nuclear development and testing stations in New Mexico and Nevada.

Before returning to Washington Monday morning, the chief executive will spend a day and a half relaxing at crooner Bing Crosby's home at Palm Desert, Calif.

Joining Kennedy for the military part of the tour were a dozen dignitaries including Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, chairman Glenn T. Seaborg of the Atomic Energy Commission, Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert and military chiefs of the armed services.

U. S. Expects Soviet Units to Quit Cuba

Forces Believed to Total From 9,000 to 15,000 Men

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. authorities expect the Soviet Union to withdraw thousands of troops from Cuba now that red bombers and missiles have been pulled from the island.

American intelligence sources estimate there are 9,000 to 15,000 Soviet troops in Cuba. Many were assigned to install and man the offensive weapons.

The Pentagon said Thursday Navy patrol planes had counted 42 bombers aboard Soviet ships outbound from Cuba. This is the number of bombers the Soviets told U.S. officials they had in Cuba — somewhat more than American experts had estimated.

This apparently completes the removal of Soviet offensive weapons from Cuba. Nearly a month ago, the U.S. Navy counted 42 Soviet missiles on their way out. U.S. authorities said they know of none remaining in Cuba.

They said U.S. negotiators will press in discussions with Soviet representatives in New York for removal of the Soviet troops from Cuba. The authorities said, "It was understood Premier Khrushchev informed President Kennedy last month that Soviet ground troops associated with the weapons would be withdrawn."

At his last news conference, Nov. 20, Kennedy said "a number of Soviet ground combat units" were in Cuba. "We are informed," he added, "that these and other Soviet units were associated with the protection of offensive weapons systems and will also be withdrawn in due course."

Some Troops Leave

Some of the Soviet troops were said to have been used to protect the missile site positions and to man the estimated two dozen anti-aircraft missile installations that U.S. experts believe the Soviets set up to defend their offensive weapons complex.

The anti-aircraft installations feature 20 to 25-mile range surface-to-air missiles.

2-Story Building Burns at Racine

RACINE (AP)—A fire destroyed a two-story service and repair building of the Walker Manufacturing Co. Thursday night. No estimate of damage was available but firemen said loss will probably amount to "several hundred thousand dollars."

Cause of the blaze was not determined but firemen said it apparently started in the boiler room and the brick structure was a total loss.

The blaze broke out around 9 p.m. and was brought under control about five hours later. Three engine companies remained on the scene early today wetting down debris. No one was reported in the building at the time of the fire and there were no known injuries and no deaths.

Leading Clerics Protest Soviet Religion Curbs

Memories of Stalin Regime Revived, They Tell Nikita

BY MILT FREUDENHEIM Chicago Daily News Service

NEW YORK — Charges that the Soviet Union has revived "memories of the anti-Semitic Stalin regime" have been cabled to Premier Nikita Khrushchev by 46 leading Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergymen, editors and educators.

The religious leaders lambasted "blanket restraints" against all religions in the Soviet Union, and then stressed the "extraordinary disabilities inflicted on Judaism and its followers."

Appealing to Khrushchev to conform to Soviet claims of religious freedom and to the U.N. declaration of human rights, the group warned that without religious freedom, the Soviet Union "forfeits the confidence of all peoples."

"Deeds" Demanded

"By deeds alone can your government confirm that the Soviet Union in truth upholds the rights of minorities and the equal dignity of man," they said.

Sponsored by the American leaders as individuals together with the American Jewish committee, a 56-year-old human relations agency, the cable was signed by archbishops, bishops, rabbis, divinity school deans and leading laymen.

They listed repressive measures against Soviet Jews including: Abuse of leaders; ban on conversion; discrimination in employment.

Miller made clear in a report prepared for the opening session of the two-day Republican National Committee meeting that he has no intention of soft-pedaling party efforts in Dixie.

A spokesman for the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. said the 117-square mile area it serviced is "a pretty bad mess."

Snow continued falling in West Virginia. The fall measured 14 inches at Elkins at mid-morning, seven inches at Charleston and Bluefield and five inches at Morgantown.

Sixteen inches of snow was reported in Garrett County, at the western edge of Maryland. Powerful winds caused near-blizzard conditions. Some 95 per cent of the roads in the county were closed by drifting snow.

Range Safety Under Study

Runaway Section of Polaris Missile Points to Problem

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Range safety procedures will be surveyed carefully as the result of a wrong-way runaway section of a Polaris missile which escaped destruction and landed in the Atlantic Ocean 150 miles east of Savannah, Ga.

"If that missile piece had headed inland instead of toward the wide open ocean," a source said, "the only thing we could have done would be to pray that it did not hit a populated area."

The Polaris began twisting wildly in the sky shortly after the second stage ignited during a test flight Thursday, and the range safety officer beamed a radio signal to destroy the missile.

However, a large section, still under power, escaped detonation and suddenly shifted from an intended southeast heading to a northeast direction.

No Nuclear Device

After word of the wayward rocket leaked out, the Air Force admitted it landed in the sea 300 to 350 miles northeast of Cape Canaveral. There was no nuclear device aboard. The range safety officer reported, without elaboration, that the command destruct system had worked properly.

Sources said that apparently the missile was not properly wired for complete detonation.

The solid-fuel Polaris has caused range safety problems in the past. On an early test flight in 1958, the safety officer destroyed a Polaris when it went off course, but a large part of the second stage survived and raced inland. It barely missed a trailer camp in nearby Cocoa Beach before dropping into a river.

That flight resulted in placement of several dynamite destruct packages throughout solid propellant missiles, instead of only in key areas, so that the vehicles could be blown to bits if necessary.

$500 Million Goal For College Needs

State Education Group Bases Sum on Enrollment Forecasts, Needed Research Facilities

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Coordinating Committee on Higher Education will tell the 1963 Legislature that Wisconsin's universities and nine state colleges will require nearly a half billion dollars worth of new buildings in the next 20 years.

A 25-page report prepared at the request of legislators said that based on enrollment forecasts and needed research facilities, $429.

861,000 will be needed for new buildings by 1982. The report called the figure "conservative," as it was outlined at a meeting Thursday.

The committee said 56,208 students were entered in public colleges this fall while another 22,808 attended private colleges. It predicted the total enrollment of 79,016 would double in fewer than 15 years.

More Students
Private institutions, the committee said, may be able to accept 50 per cent more students which means "that public institutions must grow in the neighborhood of 125 per cent . . . and be prepared to accept 70,260 more students than they have now."

"If Wisconsin is to meet in an adequate fashion the needs for the development of publicly supported higher education, its support must be markedly increased," the committee said.

The committee approved a $3 million educational television plan to blanket the state.

The first phase of the development, proposed for the 1963-65 biennium, seeks funds for the expansion of present educational TV installations in Madison and Milwaukee; a new studio at Stout State College in Menomonie; transmitters in Colfax and in the Fox River Valley to link these installations.

The first phase would cost $1,655,000 and would be financed with $745,000 in federal aid, $550,000 from the University of Wisconsin, $300,000 from the state colleges and $50,000 from the Milwaukee Vocational and Adult School.

Graduate Program
Also approved by the committee was a new graduate study program that would permit teachers to obtain master's degrees at six state colleges—Eau Claire, La Crosse, Oshkosh, River Falls, Stevens Point and Whitewater.

Previously the teachers did half of their work at the colleges and the remainder at the University of Wisconsin which awarded the degrees. Starting in the summer of 1963, the teachers will be able to work for the advanced degrees in the areas of language and literature, history and social science, mathematics and science and elementary education.

The FAA, Harris believes, already has sufficient authority to launch a war on jet noise — but is not using its power.

An earlier witness, Frank W. Kolk of New York, held out the hope that new fan jet engines will reduce the jet noise levels. All jets now being built have fan jets, Kolk said.

He testified that tests on current models already have shown "some reduction — from a noise scale reading of 127 down to 113 — below the noise levels of pure jets."

"We're just starting down the road, but it's very important," said Kolk, an American Airlines engine expert.

Charles H. Ruby of Chicago, President of the Airline Pilots Association, disagreed.

Engine developers have "wrung out just about all progress we can in noise, without jeopardizing airplane power and safety," he declared.

Texas School Cancels Play By O'Neill

WACO, Tex. (AP)—Baylor University President Abner McCall says the Baylor Theater production of "Long Day's Journey Into Night" is being cancelled after four performances because "the language of the play is not in keeping with the university ideals."

McCall's order to close the Pulitzer Prize play came Thursday after a delegation of Baptist pastors demanded the action. Baylor is a Baptist school.

McCall said he received numerous complaints of excessive profanity and offensive words and phrases in the play.

Baylor Theater's contract with the widow of Author Eugene O'Neill which stipulated the play could not be cut or altered.

Paul Baker, chairman of the Baylor drama department, expressed dismay, calling the play "the greatest play written by the greatest playwright that America has produced."

Pilots Practice Moon Landings Using Bell Jet-Powered Aircraft

MOFFETT FIELD, Calif. (AP)—Pilots are practicing at Moffett Field for lunar landings, using the jet-powered Bell X14A, designed for vertical take-off and landing.

It is the only flying vehicle in this country that can approximate power and control requirements to simulate lunar landings, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said today.

Since there is no atmosphere on the moon, wing and tail surface controls are useless. The X14A uses wing and tail for conventional flight but has jet nozzles to control roll, pitch and yaw at low—or no—forward speed.

Pope John Leaves Apartment To Pray With Vatican Council

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII left his apartment today for the first time since he became ill 10 days ago and prayed with the Vatican Ecumenical Council in St. Peter's.

Soon after he returned to his apartment, Vatican officials announced that the pontiff would participate in ceremonies Saturday closing the first phase of the council, and also in canonization rituals on Sunday for three new Roman Catholic saints.

Looking white and tired, the pontiff walked unaided into the basilica and up the several steps to his throne.

In a speech in Latin he thanked the prelates for their work and their charity toward each other despite differences in their debates and asked them to carry his blessing back to their people. He did not mention his own health.

Special Section
He waved repeatedly to non-Catholic observers sitting in a special section to one side of his throne.

Vatican sources said the Pope also celebrated Mass this morning in his private chapel and then worked a considerable time with

Reynolds Not Ready to Ask Tax Reduction

State Agencies Build Strong Case for Hike

MADISON (AP)—Governor-elect John W. Reynolds returned to Madison late Thursday night from a grueling two-day tour of state institutions where he came face to face with scores of problems that apparently can only be solved by a considerable tax increase next year.

He certainly wasn't ready to specify any cuts in the proposed $672.3 million executive budget for 1963-65.

"These tours just seem to add to the problem," he said somewhat ruefully after the spot budget hearings at state colleges and at hospitals for the mentally ill in central Wisconsin.

Survivors at those institutions presented a strong case for expenditures in the next two-year budget period which would outstrip by $162.6 million the amount appropriated in the current biennium.

Cut Back
"It is clear," Reynolds said, "that with no tax increase we would have to cut back existing services and that doesn't seem feasible."

As for slicing the record budget proposed, the governor-elect asked everyone within earshot: "Where could you cut this budget?"

Reynolds insisted that at this point in his budget deliberations he is chiefly interested "in the services provided and their caliber." Aside from the tough decisions he must make after the first of the year, the two-day inspection of institutions provided the new governor with many pleasant experiences.

He was "tremendously impressed" with the work of the Central State Hospital and Winnebago State Hospital in caring for the mentally ill.

All New
"This is almost all new to me," he said. "Central is much more of a hospital than I expected." The institution is the maximum security hospital for Wisconsin's mentally ill. Wide use of tranquilizing drugs and psychiatric treatment has brought well-ordered quiet to the institution that was a decade ago a dead end for mental patients.

Folies Bergere Will Appear at World's Fair
NEW YORK (AP)—A slightly censored edition of the Folies Bergere will be one of the attractions of the $10-million French exhibit at the 1964-65 New York World's Fair.

A spokesman for the fair's French Pavilion said Thursday the folies will be housed in an egg-shaped building seating 1,500. The 50 dancing girls, he said, will not be as "obvious" in New York as in the Paris show.

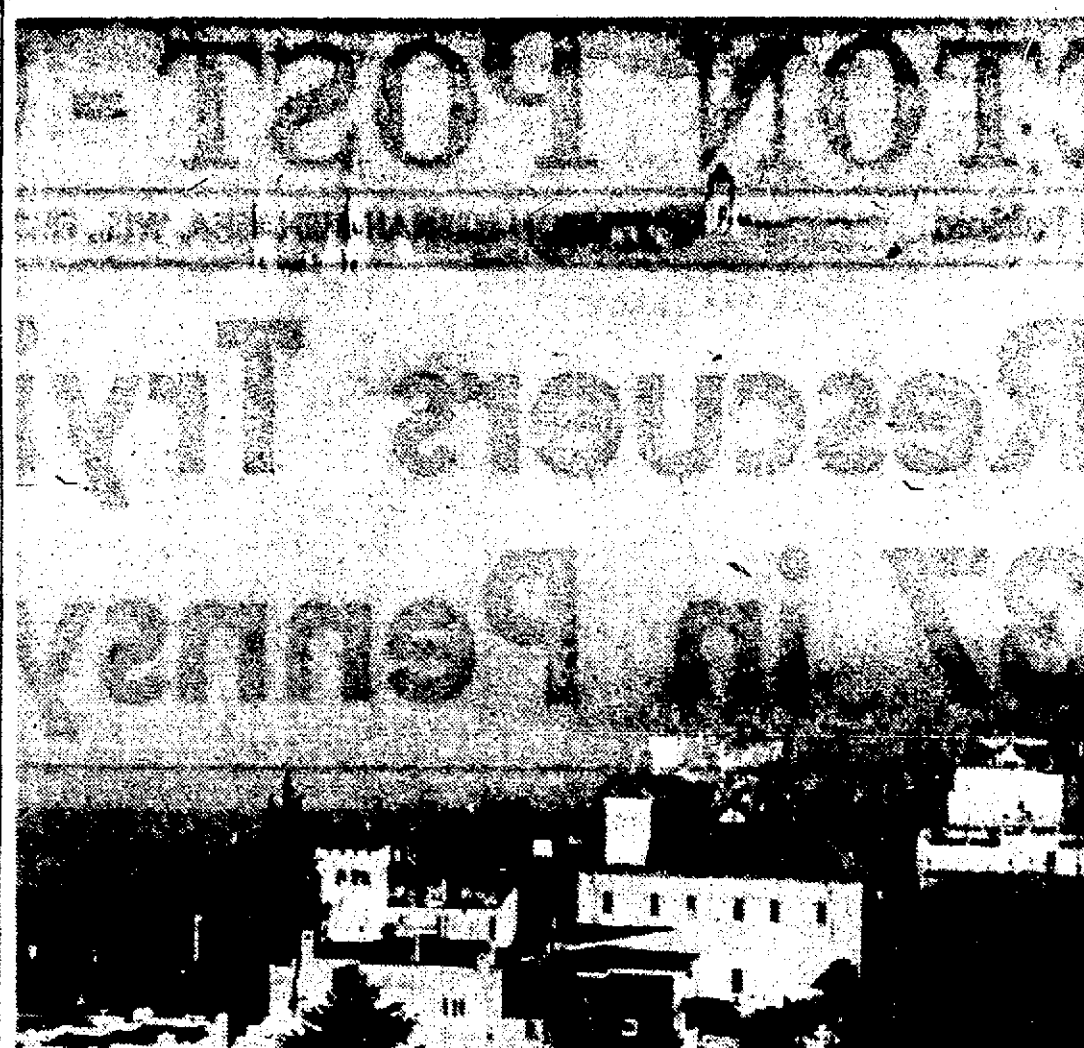

Make Speech
Officials said his participation in the weekend ceremonies would be limited. He plans to attend the closing council session only long enough to make a speech.

And instead of participating in the full three-hour canonization ceremony Sunday, as he has in the past, officials said the Pope would be present for only about 30 minutes, long enough to proclaim the three saints.

The three being elevated to sainthood are the blessed Pierre Pucci and Francesco Maria de Camposso. Eymard was French-born. The others were Italian-born.

Returning Peace Corps Volunteers May Bring Significant Dividend

Director Believes Group May Have Vital Impact on Education

WASHINGTON — The nation has yet to receive the final, and perhaps most significant, payoff from President Kennedy's Peace Corps.

That will come when young Peace Corps volunteers, who have served in far off places around the world, come back to the United States and go to work.

That is the opinion of R. Sargent Shriver, Peace Corps Director, who believes that returning Peace Corps veterans can have a revolutionary impact on American education.

"These people have seen world problems first hand," he says. "They speak Spanish or they speak Swahili."

"If they can be put in spots where they can share their experiences and their knowledge many others will profit."

Shriver says he is devoting a large part of his time to trying to develop ways this experience can be put to use.

Contacts are being made with universities and foundations to see if special scholarship programs can be worked out for Peace Corps veterans.

About 60 per cent of them are teachers in the Peace Corps program and many of them would like to continue in academic work.

Shriver feels that teaching jobs would be ideal for many so that their experiences can be shared. To do this many of them will need more formal education and opportunities to earn advanced degrees.

Shriver Hopes
Shriver hopes that eventually "anywhere from 15 to 50 universities" may be brought into special programs designed for veterans of the Corps.

"You have to consider that by 1965 some 3,000 Peace Corps veterans a year are going to be coming back to this country with the kind of experiences few young Americans have had before," he says.

"They can help to bring the world to American classrooms." Peace Corps volunteers serve for two years. The first groups went overseas in 1961.

That means that the first veterans will be returning next year, beginning in June. In all 889 will return in 1963.

The program, however, has grown rapidly and by 1964 the returning group will number 3,400.

In 1965 the returning group will reach 5,000 and it will level off at about that figure in the years to come.

Demands In
Many veterans may not want to go into teaching. Demands for them are already coming into Peace Corps headquarters from companies with overseas branches and from the State Department's Foreign Service and Foreign Aid Programs.

Shriver refers to the problem of absorbing them as the "re-entry problem."

"We've sort of shot them into orbit in strange, far off places and we have to get them back into American society," he says.

He adds that he won't consider his job as a Director successful until "re-entry" programs are operating.

Morocco, Burma Buy United Nations Bonds

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Morocco has purchased a $280,000 U.N. bond and Burma a $100,000 bond, it was announced Thursday. Thus far 56 countries have pledged or purchased $117,981,097 of the $200 million bond issue.

Shriver says he is devoting a large part of his time to trying to develop ways this experience can be put to use.

Killed Spouse

Court Martial Finds USAF Colonel Guilty

BY CHARLES GREEN
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Col. John A. Herrington, sentenced to five years at hard labor and dismissal from the Air Force for killing his wife and wounding a son, started a long but hopeful wait today for a review of his case.

Herrington to n. 46, a career officer once high in U. S. nuclear planning circles, shot his wife to death and wounded a son, Joseph, 19, on Aug. 9.

A military court at Kelly Air Force Base found him guilty Thursday of voluntary manslaughter and attempted manslaughter and set the sentence. The defense had argued that Herrington was temporarily insane at the time of the shooting.

His case goes to Maj. Gen. W. T. Hudnell, commander of the San Antonio Air Materiel Area and Herrington's superior, for review.

Hudnell can reduce the sentence or dismiss it. He cannot increase the sentence.

It probably will be at least five weeks before Hudnell gets the case. The transcript of the nine-day trial must be typed and checked.

The transcript will be in two parts, classified and unclassified, because part of the testimony dealt with top-secret defense matters.

Herrington's dismissal from the service does not take effect until Hudnell rules on the case.

Judge Denies Two Motions

Chicago Foursome Must Face Trial For $1,300 Theft

Motions to suppress evidence and drop charges against four Chicago Negroes charged with theft of over $1,300 in furs from an Appleton Department store were denied today by Outagamie County Judge Stanley Staidl.

After making the denials, Judge Staidl set Jan. 3 the date the four will be brought to trial. Facing trial will be Angela Jones, 23, Geraldine Gay, 28, Eddie King, 28 and Willie Williams, 23.

Miss Jones and Miss Gay have made application to Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer to consolidate the charges in Outagamie County with those in three other counties and to plead guilty to the Outagamie County charges. The two have asked to be tried in Columbia County. Schaefer has not answered the application.

Staidl continued bonds of $5,000 each on three of the defendants and Eddie King was returned to the Outagamie County jail without bond.

The thefts occurred April 16, and the four were arrested in Mauston the following day. The furs were found after police officers conducted a search of the car the four were riding in.

Battery Trial Continued To March 5

The trial of Willard Van Handel, 55, 903 Depot St., Little Chute, on a charge of battery has been continued to March 5, 1963. The trial was to have been before County Judge Gustave Keller Wednesday. Judge Keller said the continuance was made at the request of Van Handel's attorney, Urban Van Susteren. Van Susteren said he would ask for a jury trial.

Van Handel was charged with the complaint Nov. 12 by Mrs. Ruth Hartjes, 837 W. Grove St., his sister. The alleged offense took place Oct. 30. Van Handel pleaded innocent when he appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Nov. 12. He has posted a $250 bond.

Reynolds Tours Grand Army Home, And Stevens Point State College

Commandant Requests Improved Nursing Care, Social Worker

WAUPACA — Governor-Elect John Reynolds, surrounded by newsmen and a few selected aides, led a group of about 11 state senators and assemblymen on tours of the Grand Army Home, the College Union and the new Pray-Sims resident hall, saw the construction progress on the new science building and toured the crowded facilities at Main Hall at Stevens Point State College.

Reynolds believes his eye-witness, data-collecting tour of state institutions will help him make the "right" budget requests, but is the first to admit "the decision-making process will now be more difficult."

The first-hand knowledge gathered on his visits to the institutions, plus the findings of the budget analysts, mingled with human sympathy and confronted by a tax-minded legislature, indicate there may be many drafts before the budget is ready for state approval.

Wisconsin's governor-elect said the tours are "the fulfillment of a four-year dream."

He said as attorney general he received "uncensored" letters from people in the penal institutions and these letters helped prompt the tours.

Reynolds said the tours are educational as well to the newsmen, who are "letting the people know about the state."

Good Press Coverage "We have had very good press coverage, and in some cases photographers were allowed in institutions in which they were never allowed before," he added.

Reynolds was welcomed Thursday like a long-lost friend by administrators at the Grand Army Home and by administration and faculty members at Stevens Point State College.

He received "this we are proud of and this we are not" tours. He toured the new Burns - Clemens domiciliary-infirmatry at King and some of the antiquated cottages and dormitories. He toured the new physical education building, the College Union and the new Pray-Sims resident hall, saw the construction progress on the new science building and toured the crowded facilities at Main Hall at Stevens Point State College.

Affects Next 2 Years John S. Drayna, commandant at the Grand Army Home, worried by the tardiness of the Reynolds tour, described the anticipated next two years depends on what happens in the next two years.

Orientation came first at the Grand Army Home. Drayna discussed the needs at the home and John Moses, director of the state department of veterans affairs, stressed the department needs and accomplishments.

Drayna said the members "need more than the meat, potato and mortar type thing." He said the physical care of members is fair, but the home is asking increases in clothing and comfort allowances to come up to the standards of the public welfare department.

Nursing Care 'Inadequate' "We feel the nursing care is inadequate," Drayna explained, mentioning there are no registered nurses at the Burns-Clemens infirmatry. He said little or nothing is being done to meet the social and cultural needs of members. He asked for the addition to the staff of a social worker to fill this void.

Drayna said more money was needed to enlarge the nursing staff, for a fire truck and ambulance, and for merit raises for many of the 240 employees.

He said a recreational therapist will be added before the first of the year. After explaining the operations at the home, Drayna summarized, "We are proud of the home in spite of our shortcomings. We feel keenly that our obligation is to enable the members to live a satisfying life and feel they are contributing to their community."

Jovial Hand-Shaker On the tour itself, Reynolds was a jovial hand-shaker, frequently falling behind and in some cases almost losing the party as he stepped into rooms to visit with the residents.

The visitors were divided into three groups for the tour of the home. Assemblyman Richard E. Peterson, Waupaca Republican, joined the Reynolds tour and posed for a picture shaking hands with the Democratic governor-elect.

At the tour's conclusion and after the dinner served in Bryant Hall, a business meeting concluded the visit to the home. Reynolds questioned both Moses and Drayna.

His questions concerned per capita costs, the need for the home, the number of potential residents and future expansion plans.

Planning for 1,000 He learned the home is federally reimbursed for caring for the infirm, a service not offered by federal institutions. Plans are made to have facilities for up to 1,000 residents.

Reynolds claimed the most popular question he heard on his pre-election campaign concerned the possibility of a Wisconsin veterans' bonus.

$3.6 Million Asked to Hike Teacher Salaries

STEVEN'S POINT — Gov.-Elect John Reynolds heard a request for $3.6 million dollars to improve state college teacher salaries when he visited the state college near here Thursday.

Eugene McPhee, secretary of the state board of college regents, said the amount would help make the average salary of the state college system teachers equal to teacher salaries in five nearby states.

Reynolds was told Wisconsin ranked last in average pay to its teachers compared with Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Minnesota and Michigan.

"I would say quality of state colleges depends almost entirely on the new teacher salary program, McPhee said.

$2,000 for Professors McPhee asked for a raise of about $2,000 in the next two years for full professors and increases of $1,800 for associate professors, $1,500 for assistant professors and $1,000 for instructors.

State colleges also have asked for new teachers to bring the ratio of instructors to students close to 18 to 1.

Sen. William Proxmire joined the group in a surprise visit. At one point in the discussion McPhee said he liked federal money and would "take all I can get."

Reynolds turned to Proxmire and asked, "how much can you get us Bill?"

"Well, I don't know," Proxmire replied, "Christmas is coming."

In a discussion on the possibility of using television for instruction, Dr. Walker Wyman, president of Whitewater State College, said if a teacher can be replaced by a machine, he'd favor it.

Come Uppance

President Kennedy may feel that a friendship was abused but perhaps he has had a lesson about his efforts to control the news in a free nation where freedom of the press is essential to our liberty.

Charles Bartlett, a close friend of the President and Mrs. Kennedy, and a frequent guest at the smaller White House affairs, co-authored an article in the Saturday Evening Post which apparently upset the administration. In reviewing the events that led up to the Cuban blockade, the article mentioned that United Nations Ambassador Adlai Stevenson would have preferred more "political negotiation" instead of the get-tough policy which was taken. In effect the White House blew its rotunda and Pierre Salinger issued a formal statement that the article was misleading.

We have no way of knowing which version is the accurate one. In the past Mr. Stevenson has appeared to take a gentler view of dealing with the Russians and there were reports at the time of the Cuban invasion that his point of view was instrumental in the President's decision not to furnish the air support needed for success. However, certainly Mr. Stevenson has publicly backed the present policy whether or not he agreed in its forming. And we must remember that those were frantic days. Though we disagree that the United States should have taken a softer line on Cuba, we cannot blame Mr. Stevenson if he had a difference of opinion.

But President Kennedy to his chagrin has found out that it takes a real dictatorship to control the press. Many of the recent presidential administrations have had pet newsmen and pet newspapers to whom scoops were whispered. But President Kennedy has gone further in attempting to use press releases—and restrictions on reporters—as a means of influencing policy. Trying to turn newsmen into kept men is a denial of freedom of the press or the need of it.

Bartlett may not find the White House door as hospitably open as previously. We do not know how accurate was his report of the Cuban events. But he has made it clear no government is sacrosanct to a good reporter.

Some Interesting Tax Exemptions

While there is much talk about a tough crackdown on business expense accounts it is quite natural that someone should direct attention to the tax exemption granted to groups "organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals."

William R. MacKaye of the Washington Bureau of the Houston Chronicle has performed this task in an article published in the Washington Evening Star. MacKaye found that some startlingly politically-minded groups and some rather impressive businesses enjoy exemption.

The National Geographic Society is one of the organizations referred to. He points out that the organization is scientific, literary and educational and its credentials are impeccable. The magazine which this society publishes is of course well known. In 1961 the society reported its gross income was $28,578,510.54. Its excess of operating income over operating expenses was $1,297,925.99. It had other income, largely interest and dividends, totaling $927,286.15. Thus it had a tax free income of $2,225,212.14. The society gave away for research purposes $326,535.63 which left $1,898,676.51 that went untaxed into its treasury. The net worth of the society is reported as $26,938,790.18.

Other organizations with incomes sufficiently large to interest the writer are the RAND Operations, Santa Monica, Calif., and the Institute for Defense Analyses (IDA), Cambridge, Mass. Both are tax-exempt scientific research organizations. In 1961 the RAND corporation had an income of $17,465,215.37 and the IDA had an income of $8,091,728. The principal activity of these two organizations is working on research contracts for the United States government, mainly the Department of Defense, but MacKaye points out they are in competition with the research divisions of many private profit making (and tax paying) companies, and frequently their competitors complained about this.

In 1961 the Institute reported earning $11,916 in interest, $255,877 in contributions and $8,079,812 in other income. It made no report on expenditures for compensation of officers, salaries, interest, taxes or other items but reported $8,079,812 in miscellaneous expenses which is the same amount of its "other income" which leaves it a simple matter to figure the amount it had left for adding to its net worth. The net worth of the Institute is reported as $1,431,258. The RAND corporation's receipts from its operations total $17,465,215.37 but its expenses are not itemized but merely given as a total of $16,935,690.31, leaving a net profit on its business of $529,525.06. Of this amount $460,890.46 was distributed in the form of contributions and grants, leaving $68,634.60 accumulated income. The corporation now has accumulated funds of $5,268,291.94 and a net worth of $6,268,291.94.

The critics of these nonprofit tax-exempt research firms complain that they use up what would otherwise be corporate profits in unreasonably high salaries to their employees. Then they charge these salaries to the government as a part of their cost of operation. It is pointed out that most government research contracts pay the contractor his costs plus a predetermined sum as his profit. The author of the article claimed that both RAND and IDA prepared their returns in such a manner that a check of the average salary of their employees was impossible.

The law requires that some of the information in the annual returns of the organizations be made available to the public, MacKaye says, presumably to enable the public to assist the Internal Revenue Service in supervising them. Nevertheless, the IRS has chosen to interpret the mandate of the law as narrowly as possible with the result that the public gets literally what the law requires and no more.

The IRS insists on itemized reports on contributions made by the organization but says the public is entitled to know only the classes of contributions made. Likewise the service asks whether the organization has engaged in political activity but it does not permit the public to know the answer. MacKaye believes that the law covering these organizations is inadequate. In fact it seems to be adding insult to injury to refuse the public at least as much information as the IRS requires on a $10 business expense report.

Looking Backward

Hanky-Panky in Kentucky

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Motor for Dec. 5, 1862.

Col. Utley, a 15th Wisconsin Regiment, who refused to give up certain contrabands at Nicholasville, Ky., at the orders of Gen. Gilmore, has been indicted by a Kentucky judge and a warrant is out for his arrest.

Col. Utley has got his back up and threatens to resist, with arms if necessary, any officer who may attempt to serve the warrant. The regiment all declare they will stand by him.

A brave veteran officer in one of our regiments in Kentucky complains bitterly of the unwarrantable and disgraceful attempt of Col. Starkweather, who was acting brigadier general, to prevent the soldiers of this State (Wisconsin) from voting at the recent election. He says:

"Col. Starkweather endeavored to prevent vote from being taken. To this end he issued a request in writing to Wisconsin regiments in his brigade that they should hold no election. Subsequently he has declared that he would 'break up the whole thing.'"

"Isn't it high time that Democratic colonels and generals mind their own business? Col. Hobart, commanding the 21st in the absence of Col. Sweet, who was dangerously wounded at Chaplain Hills, exerted the influence of his position to prevent holding any election in the regiment. Consequently few votes were polled."

Friday, Dec. 3, 1937

Judge Henry P. Hughes of the Oshkosh Municipal Court was appointed judge of the Winnebago-Calumet County Circuit Court that day by Gov. Philip LaFollette. The governor also announced the appointment of Samuel J. Luchsinger, Oshkosh, as municipal judge. Hughes succeeded the late Judge Fred Beglinger.

Harold Hesselman won the ping pong championship at Neenah High School by defeating runner-up Jack Draheim in the tournament finals.

A popular quartet in New London was the year-old singing group organized at Washington High School. The singers were Robert Runenoff, George Demming, Harold Gottgetreu and Emory Danke. All high school seniors, the boys were to perform at the annual Future Farmers Association parent-son banquet.

Orville Meltz and his Saxopaters were to present saxophone harmony and swing at the winter concert of the 120th Field Artillery Band. Members of the group included, besides Meltz, Hugo Weinfurter, Clarence Meltz, Carol Roehl, Gilbert Rietler and John Smith.

Friday, Dec. 5, 1952

Mrs. Joseph Johnson was elected noble grand of the Deborah Rebecca Lodge. Mrs. Ruth Olson was named vice grand. Mrs. Constant Captain recording secretary. Mrs. Otto Tilly financial secretary and Mrs. Marvin Leisch treasurer.

Dan Ornstern was elected president of Les Gaillards to succeed Daniel Jahnke. Other new officers included Clayton Templin, vice president, Merle Moderson, recording secretary, Glen Bowers, corresponding secretary, George Barry, treasurer, William Peotter, sergeant-at-arms, and Clarence Zelle, chaplain. All were from Appleton except Bowers, who lived at Little Chute.

People's Forum

Public Needs to Know More About Trade Expansion Act

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Is free trade better or worse for America than a protective tariff? It looks as though there will be an answer to this question within the next several years because of the recent passage of President Kennedy's new Trade Expansion Act.

The State Department claims we need free trade to remain strong and hold back Communism. This is a very high sounding ideal, but unfortunately other responsible people believe just as strongly that free trade will completely destroy the nation's economy and remove the United States from a position of strength in the world.

After Great Britain joins the Common Market, probably next summer, trade negotiations will start in earnest and we can expect either the worst or the best as a result, depending upon who sits where and how. I cannot help but feel we will be in for a hard time and there is plenty of evidence to support this conviction.

This type of feeling, as you know, is known as a protectionist feeling. Somehow or other protectionism has lost the popularity it has held since 1934, although the basic idea of tariff rates always has been to promote trade between nations, but on an equal basis.

A protectionist is in sympathy with the businessman who can't match Japanese prices in the market place and with the skilled worker whose job has been displaced through low wage foreign imports. He is in agreement with the economists who are well studied on the true balance of trade figures not generally known to the average citizen, although they are available.

So far the press has not been very enlightening, except in a few rare instances. This is not necessarily the fault of the press, but rather and most probably more of a complacency on the part of everyone, something like we have in civil defense. But it could very well be that our country is on the threshold of crucial moments and the facts of life or death have not been brought fully into the open. That certainly is an obligation of a free press. Just what is in store for our country now that the new trade bill has become law? What are some of the dangers resulting from over-generosity in making certain kinds of trade agreements? The American people really ought to know.

I believe and suggest this newspaper and all newspapers can do the readers a great service if they cared to do a little investigating. Knowledgeable series of articles, daily or weekly should be written on the probable and possible impacts of the coming trade negotiations.

Then, proceeding further, newspapers should send top notch writers out in the field to interview those who know the answers and those who think they do, those who will lose because of increased imports (they won't have to look far from Appleton for the first interview) and those who stand to gain (this search will be more difficult). Let them talk to senators and congressmen, professors and students of economy, manufacturers big and small, labor leaders, even importers. Talk to the housewife whose husband has just been laid off, the man on the street, the shoe-maker and the candy maker.

And finally, the public should know more about the new trade bill itself. What the more favored national clause is all about, how an industry goes about applying for relief when hurt by imports and so on. It's a big job this publicizing of all the facts, but an important one to say the very least. It certainly is a challenge worth accepting. There should be no hesitation in answering the challenge.

Many Need Information On Diabetes

Editor, Post-Crescent:
I wish to commend the "Doctor of Internal Medicine" on the article of Dec. 3rd concerning "Diabetes and Symptoms."

Our community should be very grateful to a doctor who will take time out to convey to the people the important timely information concerning "Diabetes." We will do well to remember there could not be a better description for it than "Sneaky Disease."

I write with past experiences when I say, many (including family doctors and teachers) need and could use much more enlightenment on this particular disease.

We have a start in the right direction by observing one (1) week per year, but that will never compensate for the other fifty-one (51) without an effort to follow thru effectively.

Therefore — Thank you Doctor.

Some Republicans Are Skeptical About Renk Leadership in Party

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Wilbur Renk's self-chosen task of giving the Republican party a "new look," as he puts it, will probably raise some questions in the minds of otherwise sympathetic party members about his timing and his reasons.

If it is accepted, as it is widely assumed, that this is a poorly disguised effort to occupy the leadership vacuum in the party that has been created with the second defeat of Philip Kuehn as the gubernatorial nominee, Mr. Renk is showing an eagerness and a haste that may be self-defeating.

It was observed here earlier that there is an opportunity to take over, in the defeated and somewhat demoralized party, by anyone who has the energy and imagination and the ambition to do so. But Mr. Renk's credentials are scarcely as valid as those of a dozen other men who could be named — including some of those who were elected in the same year that he was being defeated — and they may very well regard this as revealingly impetuous and premature.

The Renk boomlet as a suitable candidate for the next nomination was riding along nicely, especially in the newspaper columns of those organs that have been hyper-critical of the Republican party organization for years. Had he been content to permit that momentum to gain, until next spring, for example, when the party workers will be preparing for their next state convention, he might have had a more graceful position from which to volunteer for command.

ROCKEFELLER?

The Renk project has been associated with the obvious candidacy of Gov. Rockefeller of New York for the Republican presidential nomination in 1964. Renk was standing in the wings, indeed, when Rockefeller made a reconnaissance here in connection with the 1960 nomination. But there is nothing more solid in politics than the rule that the presidential candidate takes all the support he can get, and in view of what portends now for 1964, it is perfectly evident that Rockefeller can organize a presidential delegate slate here without risking the use of factions. There was the broadest possible hint, indeed, in the letter from New York to Chairman Claude Jasper the other day that Rockefeller intends to work with the "regulars" of Wisconsin when it comes time to prepare his race for the Wisconsin presidential primary in the spring of 1964.

Mr. Renk's theme is that the party must present a new image to the electorate, that it must find ways to appeal more broadly to all groups and some of the groups, especially, that now tend to react largely as Democrats.

But he tends to overlook that the party's "image" in Wisconsin during the next two years will be painted by those Republicans who were elected to office this year, many of them with margins sufficient to make them sniff a little resentfully at such advice from the sidelines from a man who has not yet been given credentials from the voters.

THE LEGISLATURE

Among them are the leaders of the Republican-controlled legislature.

In the tests that are normally used in politics, such men as Frank Panzer and Robert Knowles of the state senate, and Paul Alfonsi and Robert Haase of the assembly, will have a greater influence on the course of the party and to the extent that its fortunes are related to its record, on its reception by the voters of 1964 than will the Renk movement, however its membership and numbers are now measured.

There is also the fact that Jack Olson, the new lieutenant governor, and George Thompson, the new attorney general, were chosen by the voters for offices from which incumbents have repeatedly aspired to higher places in the past.

Mr. Renk will probably encounter some skeptics who will wonder whether his self-appointed task of party rehabilitation is not related to the desire to head-off these possible rivals for the next Republican nomination for the governorship. All of these considerations will be pondered the more deeply, it may be guessed, because Mr. Renk's loudest cheering is coming from sources hostile to Republican party prosperity.

Lists Reservations On Christmas Season

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Christmas could become the kind of holiday it should be — if the loudspeakers blasting out "Silent Night" paid a little more respect to silence.

If television and radio commercials didn't try to link up the purchase of their products with the "spirit of Christmas" in a brazenly hypocritical fashion;

If the exchange of gifts were limited to expressions of genuine friendship rather than exhibitions of competitive generosity;

If shopping expeditions were conducted with some grace and courtesy, rather than displaying the single-minded ferocity of the Green Bay Packers' backfield in motion;

If climbing families did not vie against each other in the elaborateness of their Christmas cards, and instead contributed some of the surplus expenditure to a worthy charity;

If the liquor industry refrained from displaying pictures of jolly old Santa Claus dispensing booze to the populace;

If the Christmas-through-New-Year period were devoted to amending the thoughtlessness and rudeness of the rest of the year, rather than resembling an inebriated lunatic asylum run by the inmates;

If less hysteria and more taste, care and conservatism were exercised in the purchase of gifts, so that the week after Christmas would not find the "return" counters of shops in a state of utter chaos and collapse;

If children were taught that Christmas is a season for giving, not just for grabbing, so that the self-centeredness that is encouraged for the holidays does not have to be curbed in January — for children are incapable of understanding why an attitude that is fostered in one week is frowned upon in the next;

If the hearty friendliness could be laid on a little less heavily, so that there would be more left to spread over the rest of the year, when it is so badly needed;

If more people would ponder upon the real reason why He Whose birthday we are celebrating was called the "Prince of Peace," and what this title should mean in terms of our own conduct;

And, most of all, if we forgot all the world's perversions enshrining Jesus' birthday and celebrated by remembering: "Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them, for this is the law and the prophets."

Life More Uncertain Since Dec. 7, 1941

Man Hasn't Chosen to Live in Peace Despite World War II

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—What has changed since Pearl Harbor, 21 years ago today, the length of time in which a human being is supposed to come to maturity? In those 21 years man has had some moments of isolated splendor.

He shook the pull of earth and soared into space. He stood on the threshold of the unknown: a journey to the moon. He made great progress against forces that shorten his life, like disease.

Yet, his life became more uncertain than ever.

His primitive inability to work out reasonably a peaceful existence on this limited earth didn't improve. His deep hostilities toward his neighbor haven't changed. They just took new directions.

These have been a distressed, distracted, groping 21 years.

They have been so full of talk of war, fear of war and war itself, of invasions, killings, tyrannies, treacheries and assassinations man seemed to learn nothing from the massacres that ended temporarily in 1945.

The examples come to mind easily enough: war in Korea, China, India, Viet Nam, Laos, North Africa, the British-French-Israeli invasion of Egypt, the assassinations in Algeria, revolutions in Asia and Latin America, the slaughter in the Congo, Moslem-Hindu bloodbaths, the American-Russian missile crisis in Cuba.

To us, involved in the daily doings, this may have seemed like a time of motion.

But historians, looking back 500 years from now, may conclude the only real change in these 21 years in man's dealing with man was his discovery of how better to make war worse.

World War II produced rockets and atomic bombs. All man had to do then was learn how to attach the bombs to the rockets. He learned easily and made previous wars look old-fashioned and humane.

While this had a frightening effect on man for obvious reasons—the more the number of nations with the bomb, the less everybody's life expectancy—it didn't deter him a moment.

Bigger Bombs

He went on making bigger bombs as if hypnotized by fright into thinking that if he frightened himself enough he'd become too frightened to use what frightened him.

To future generations, if there are any, this may look like simple jungle witchcraft, especially since man is now so deep in his own atomic trance he has been unable to come out of it.

But to mankind today it all seems so normal and practical that he is pouring into bombs he hopes he never uses vast resources and treasure which, if employed for the good of mankind, could make life better and brighter.

Historians may decide World War II didn't change things basically but only rearranged them in a way just as grisly.

By eliminating Nazism-Fascism as a third and ambitious world force, it quickened the inevitable confrontation between the western and Communist concept of life and progress.

Reds Expand

The war didn't lessen this problem. It intensified it. Communism, which was limited to Russia and felt held within its borders, expanded jubilantly after the war in Europe and Asia.

As part of the rearrangements of World War II, old enemies became new allies, old allies became new enemies.

The deep roots of ancient agencies remain as fresh as ever: racial and religious hate, national cupidities, enormous chasms between rich and poor around the world, intolerance, and even new nationalisms.

The old colonial powers, stretched on the rack of poverty, had to disgorge their possessions in Asia and Africa. Hundreds of millions of people have freedom, or freedom of a kind, at last.

Struggle to Learn

They're still struggling to learn how to use it. When they increase in strength, and in their ambitions and conflicts, there will be new problems undreamed of now.

There are signs in Western Europe, the product of need, that nations may be beginning to work together in order to live a little longer. This is only in its formative stage.

Perhaps in time, around the world, man, out of need and fear, will choose to live peacefully for reasons of common sense. He has not shown much of it in the past 21 years.

Uncle Sam Sells Off Surplus Defense Goods

BY JOHN T. CUNIFF
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—For the 18th time this year, Uncle Sam has cleared his attic of surplus defense department items from trousers to locomotives by means of an old-fashioned auction.

The most recent occurred Thursday when friendly Fred Hinkley, sporting a red string tie and a lacy, fluted shirt, brought down his upraised arm, diamond ring flashing and a hammer crashing.

Some $4 million of items went on sale.

Hinkley, one of only two government auctioneers, chanted along at the rate of an item a minute. Although every word was distinct he sounded, nevertheless, like a speeded-up record.

"Twenty-nine, twenty-nine, one more time at twenty-nine," Hinkley cracked as he tried to dispose of a lathe.

Need Action

"You've got to have action to have a good auction," he said in an interview shortly before he faced an audience of 320 in the ballroom of a downtown hotel.

"Once you get it moving you have to keep it moving," added Hinkley, who considers himself a showman.

His purpose as a showman was to excite and entice his audience into desiring and bidding on 310 items, pictures of which were flashed on a screen.

Most of the audience was made up of regular auction goers and many had attended most of the previous government auctions. Some were dressed as businessmen, others were in mackinaws.

When friendly Fred stepped down he was replaced by smiling George Beam, who looked less like a showman and more like a government worker. He wore a red, white and blue tie.

Sells Tug

Beam, a moon-faced man, once sold an ocean-going tug at an auction in semi-arid Pueblo, Colo., then topped that by selling an icebreaker to an eskimo in Alaska.

The pair anticipated a return to the government from Thursday's selling of about 20 per cent of what it paid for the items auctioned. For some items they go much more.

Materials handling equipment, such as fork lift trucks, and machine tools bring as much as 50 per cent of original cost, although many are more than 20 years old.

Nine locomotives sold for an average of $4,500 vs. original prices ranging from $25,000 to $50,000.

Extra Yule Help Required to Have Social Security

If you plan to work during the Christmas season you will need a social security number Mr. Frank Donnick social security District Manager in Appleton said today.

Work for any business firm as a sales person, cashier, or other job is covered by social security, and employers must have a social security number for each employee to report these wages.

Mr. Donnick said that although the total wages paid may not seem significant now, eventually they accumulate and will be used in figuring the total amount of monthly social security benefit payments.

Women who have had social security numbers in the past and who have married and changed their names should report their new name to their social security office. Social security records should show this name change, but the same number originally issued will be used.

When an employee is hired, he should be sure to show his social security number to his employer. The employer can then report the number accurately on the tax return he uses to report wages paid.

Mr. Donnick invited anyone needing a social security number or information about social security to come to his office located at Courthouse Annex.

Rockefeller Center Lights 67-Foot Tree

NEW YORK (AP)—Rockefeller Center has ushered in the Christmas season with the lighting of 7,000 clear bulbs on a 67-foot Maine evergreen in the plaza between 49th and 50th Streets.

The tree is further ornamented with 5,000 gold-colored aluminum disks that reflect the light of the bulbs.

The official tree-lighting was held Thursday night, featuring Christmas music by the 100-voice West Point cadet glee club.

Fifteen children from the United Nations International School sang carols and illuminated several smaller trees in the plaza, each signifying Christmas in a different country.

face-to-air missiles. Washington wants these dismantled, too, through there is no current report the Soviets are doing so.

So far, officials said, several hundred Soviet soldiers have been seen aboard ships leaving Cuba. A large-scale troop withdrawal, U.S. strategists believe, would not only weaken the Kremlin hold on Cuba, but lessen the chance of a U.S. - Soviet clash should the United States decide to move against Cuba in the future.

The Soviet bombers and missiles were the offensive weapons Kennedy demanded the Soviet Union remove from Cuba. At the Nov. 20 news conference Kennedy said Khrushchev had promised to get all the planes out of Cuba within 30 days.

Prospects of a formal diplomatic accord growing out of the New York negotiations appear nil. Kennedy is opposed to giving the formal no-invasion pledge which Khrushchev wants until there is effective international inspection of Cuba, which the Reds refuse.

Gen. John K. Gerhart, commander of the North American Air Defense Command NORAD, said reports of Soviet planes over the United States during the Cuban crisis apparently trace to flights by American planes which were temporarily unidentified.

Man Admits Placing Different Bullet in Abdomen as Alibi

MONTREAL (AP) — Reginald Quimet has confessed in court that he removed a bullet from his abdomen and later replaced it with one of different caliber as an alibi in an armed robbery case.

Quimet was sentenced Wednesday to three years in prison when he changed his plea to guilty and revealed the self-administered surgery.

Police in suburban St. Michael had fired on two men who held up a store. One was hit.

Quimet said he removed the police bullet from his abdomen and then reported to a hospital to have the wound treated. He was turned over to police.

Quimet said that while he was in jail he re-opened his gunshot wound and inserted the alibi slug. He later complained of pain and the bullet was removed in the jail infirmary.

Red Official Backs Khrushchev's Dislike Of Abstract Art

MOSCOW (AP) — Minister of Culture Ekaterina Furtseva has endorsed Premier Khrushchev's indictment of abstract art in the Soviet Union.

She told newsmen who attended a reception at the Finnish embassy Thursday night there will be no exposition of abstract art in this country.

Khrushchev attended an exhibit of modern art last week, called it the work of sick people and said it has no place in Soviet life.

"We'll know in about 10 days," said White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger. Pushinka is undergoing tests to determine whether she is pregnant.

Pushinka is one of three dogs owned by the President and his family. Khrushchev said that she was a daughter of the Soviet space dog Strelka.

There has been no announcement of who might be the father.

The Huron High senior was sent home last week by Principal Glen E. Peterson, who objected to her platinum mink-colored, up-swept hairdo. Peterson said her hair stylist's creations "are too sophisticated for high school girls."

Miss Thompson models for the stylist, Kenneth Welker. He says she needs the hairdo for a contest this week. He suggested the principal start his criticism with women teachers who tint their hair "the worst shades of blue and purple I've ever seen."

Rescuers Try to Reach 36 Trapped in Mine

burgh. It produces coal for U.S. Steel's Clairton (Pa.) Works.

Straight Shaft

The mine shaft drops straight down 525 feet from the surface. At that point there is a sloping tunnel without branches extending two miles to the working face. The tunnel drops gradually from 525 feet to 650 feet. That's the point where the men are trapped. There is only one exit to the surface.

Mine officials said air coming up from the mine shaft contains large amounts of carbon dioxide, indicating there is fire in the blast area.

The first indication of anything wrong was the reported failure of an electric exhaust fan. It blew out, but was repaired in 10 minutes. Five minutes later it conked out again.

Dust Indicates Fire

James Girod, an assistant mine superintendent, said the first crews down the shaft detected dust coming from all directions, indicating an explosion or fire.

The major problem for the rescue teams was to pump bad air out and clean air in. Concrete ventilation shafts had buckled under the blast.

Inside a corrugated steel shack above the surface some three dozen relatives of trapped miners waited in bitter wintry weather for news.

Snow and ice created snarled traffic on roads leading to the mine. Some cars skidded into ditches; others stalled.

The mine was opened in 1946 and has produced as much as 20,000 tons of coal a day—enough to heat more than 2,000 homes for a winter.

The explosion happened on the 55th anniversary of the worst U.S. mine accident on record. On Dec. 6, 1907, a disaster in a mine at Monongah, W. Va., killed 361 persons.

Productions Numbers To Highlight Current 'Holiday on Ice' Show

Top Skating Stars in Ballet, Comedy, Fantasy at Arena Weekend of Dec. 14

The major ice shows of today are something more than mere demonstrations of skill, speed and high-jinks on flashing blades.

They are, in fact, mammoth theatrical productions with the ice rink the stage for a combination of everything from ballet to comedy, from vaudeville to classical music. The productions are enhanced by gorgeous costumes, brilliant lighting and colorful stage settings.

Holiday On Ice, coming to the Brown County Veterans Memorial Arena at Green Bay Friday, Dec. 14 for a three-day run, stresses this "new look" in its new edition.

There are 18 acts on the program, running the gamut of entertainment. There are new stars, new costumes, new lighting and new ideas.

The stars come from the ranks of the world's greatest skaters, champions whose names are on the honor rolls of regional, national and international and Olympic competitions.

Topping this year's program is a full-scale presentation of Tchaikovsky's ballet, "The Sleeping Beauty," which will bring to life on the frosted arena stage the classic Charles Perrault fairy tale. It has been hailed as the most lavish production number ever staged by Holiday in its 18 years on the road. It is presented in four scenes with 60 members of the cast and a dozen stars in lead roles.

Special Events

UW Fox Valley Center — (tonight) University of Wisconsin Operatic Ensemble, 7:30 p.m., lecture room Fox Valley Center.

Violinist Ruggiero Ricci, acclaimed a musical genius at the age of 9, will present a concert in Stevens Point at 8 p.m. Tuesday. The famous musician is the guest artist for the Assembly Concert Series at Wisconsin State College, Stevens Point.

stars of Holiday shows in Europe and South America before joining the American troupe, have the leading roles in "Sleeping Beauty."

Other Stars

Other stars in the production include Barbara Martin, Germany's figure skating champion in 1960 and runner-up in the world's professional championships at Nottingham, England, this year; Alice Quessy, who was Eastern States champion before she signed up with the ice show; Ray Balmer, Holiday's leading man from Milwaukee and holder of the Mid-West title before leaving amateur skating; Tommy Allen, another former Mid-West champion; Jane Morris, former Miss Georgia in the Miss America contest as well as a skater, dancer and baton twirler of note; Alfredo Mendoza, one-time world champion water skier; Johnny and Pat Williams, Rosita and Juanita Percelle.

Another outstanding production is "Egyptian Fantasy," which stars Balmer as soloist and who later teams with Barbara Martin for a duo number.

"Egyptian Fantasy" also will introduce Canada's skating comedian, Ted Deeley to American audiences. He has toured Europe, South America, Africa and the Far East with various Holiday units.

Musical Feature

Still another new feature is the appearance of American harpist Susan Goodman. She will be the central figure in "Rhapsody for Strings," presenting solo interpretations on the harp as the skaters glide around Miss Goodman's moving float.

A Swarthmore College graduate, Miss Goodman's musical background includes study at the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich., Tanglewood in the Berkshires and Pierre Monteux School for Conductors at Hancock, Me.

"Holiday on Ice" is scheduled for five shows the weekend of Dec. 14. Evening performances are at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, matinees at 2:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday and a closing evening show at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Wolf Is Hero Of New Disney Nature Film

Walt Disney does a switch in his movie, "The Legend of Lobo," by making a real wolf the hero with dog and man the villains.

The movie, now playing at the Viking Theater in Appleton, the Neenah, the Raulf in Oshkosh and Rialto in Kaukauna, is one of Disney's best nature stories filmed in the field. It has excitement, drama, pathos, humor and suspense. It's definitely a movie for the whole family to see.

Anyone who regards the wolf as a mean and loathsome creature will change his mind after seeing this movie. Disney tells his story from the viewpoint of the wolf and before the movie is over, everyone's pulling for him.

Based on True Story

The story is basically a true one, set at the turn of the century. This is the story of a great wolf who stands like a giant of adventure and courage among the famous figures of the Old West. The legendary Lobo was big, tough and wily, the wolf that led his pack on foraging missions throughout the Southwest for many years without being caught. Disney's film is in a sense biographical. It picks Lobo up from early cubhood and builds his character from a rambunctious, curious animal youngster to parenthood and the wily adversary of man.

Movie Highlights

He is seen learning his lessons while encountering other animal young fry. When he butts into a swimming party of raccoons, he gets his comeuppance in a dunking. He finds out that the badger can give him too much competition in a fight. He discovers danger when he usurps the sunning spot of a rattler and has to be rescued by papa wolf.

After Lobo grows up, he picks his one and only mate, Sombra, and establishes a home high in the mountains of Arizona where the Pueblo cliff-dwellers lived. Wolves, like the ancient Indians, prefer to isolate their homes for family protection.

To reach his den, Lobo has to inch his way across a narrow log bridge that spans a deep gorge. This bridge is the key to one of the most exciting scenes in the film, when Lobo leads a pack of hounds and a wolf hunter on a merry chase to his private bridge.

Western star Rex Allen narrates the story. The movie is in color.

Cow Trouble Plagues Trail On Rawhide

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 (Channel 2) — Edward Andrews, who generally plays light-comedy-indoor roles, contributes a fine performance in a heavy-drama-outdoor chapter of Rawhide tonight. He plays a rancher who is more of a troublemaker, as he joins the cattle drive with his herd of Quereencias; if you're not up on your cattle terminology, they turn out to be pasture cattle which hate going for long walks.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 2) — For about 59 minutes of Route 66's hour the program seems to be taking up the cudgels for extra-sensory perception. Tod (Martin Milner) and Buz (George Maharis) are in Cleveland, where a performing mind reader (Lois Smith) predicts a tragic fate for our heroes. This gets nicely eerie as it approaches a climax in a burning barn.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 4-5) — Sing Along With Mitch could be subtitled Dance Along this week, as its first segment spotlights six dances. (Color)

8-8:30 (Channel 11) — I'm Dickens... He's Fenster contributes a slick psychological commentary, in and among its usual gags. The crux of this week's plot concerns a safety award given to the firm which employs John Astin and Marty Ingels. They react to this honor with a bevy of accidents.

10:20-12 (Channel 4-5) — All-American football players and New Year's Day bowl winners are among the guests of the Tonight Show. (Color)

State May Help End Urban Growing Pains

Extra-Territorial Zoning Powers for Cities Given Okay

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Some alleviation of the growing pains of the urban governments of Wisconsin is apparently in sight.

The Legislative Council's unanimous vote of approval for a plan to grant extra-territorial zoning powers, under limited conditions, to cities and villages may be taken as a sign that such legislation will be enacted by the new legislature which will start its work in January.

Under the measure as drafted after a year of study by a special commission of legislators, municipal officials and private citizens, cities and villages through agreement with towns could extend their territorial rights to apply zoning controls by three miles and one and one-half miles, respectively, beyond their boundaries.

Such extension of zoning powers could be done only by a municipality which has adopted a zoning ordinance and created a plan commission.

Equal Plat Control
The extra-territorial zoning power would be equal to the plat control jurisdiction of cities and villages and under present law.

A city, for example, could specify the land it wishes to zone, and by the adoption of an ordinance could freeze the land use status of that for a period of two years, pending the preparation of a detailed zoning law, with an extension of one year permitted.

Thereafter there would be created a joint extra-territorial zoning committee for administrative purposes, consisting of three members of the city plan commission, and three members of each of the towns in which the proposed ordinance would be effective. When more than one town is involved, a separate vote of approval of the ordinance would be required in each town. A majority of the zoning committee would be required to approve such a law. The town would continue to issue building permits, but subject to inspection of the city building inspector to avoid ordinance violations.

Shawano Sheriff-Traffic Tiff May be Allowed to Die

Post-Crescent News Service
SHAWANO — The controversy between the sheriff and the traffic patrol chief which rocked Shawano County through the autumn months apparently will be allowed to die if it is up to the defendants to instigate action against each other.

Following a demand by the Shawano County Taxpayers Alliance to straighten out the matter, the county board instructed its law enforcement committee to entertain charges by Sheriff Carl L. Krueger and Traffic Captain Edwin W. Bahr against each other, hear their answers, hold a hearing and report findings and recommendations to the county board.

they are heartily in favor of the proposed legislation.

(Mitchell said he believes it will help develop a uniform land use plan, as encouraged by the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission. It will help reserve open space and establish thoroughfares, he said. "It's a move in the right direction," he commented.

(Loehning thought the law is particularly important and appropriate at this time and in this area because growing municipalities are extending their boundaries in every direction. "Municipalities need some kind of control over outside areas," he said, "and this law will help us avoid haphazard development."

Menasha Mayor John Kline and Kaukauna Mayor Joseph Baygeon were not available for comment.)

Help Wanted

Process Server May be Hired by Outagamie

Help Wanted — Process server about $500 per month, Peotter to work in Outagamie County to take the workload of the sheriff's department.

A process server may be among new personnel hired in the future, the Outagamie County's committee on courts and administration informally agreed this morning.

The committee will discuss the problem further with Sheriff-Elect Calvin Spice later today, before making recommendations.

The job is being handled by Undersheriff Donald Heinritz with help from investigators Jack Frenz and Jack Zuelzke. Some service is performed by former Sheriff Andrew Schiltz on a parttime basis.

His Duties
Heinritz said the process server, if hired, could not only perform service of garnishments, civil papers, orders to show cause, subpoenas and other court papers, but could have complete responsibility of the bookkeeping, auditing and the collection of fees.

The committee discussed changing the bank account which the fees are placed in from a personal account controlled by the sheriff to a county account.

Under the present system which has been operating since 1959 when the county began receiving the fees, the sheriff places the fees in his own account, then, once a month, turns the money over to the county treasurer by writing a personal check.

Sheriff Clerk Gilbert Peotter said personal fees are made out to Sheriff Robert Heinritz. He said fees are taken to the bank, placed into Heinritz' personal account, then within a matter of a few hours, is transferred to the county treasurer's office.

New Acoustical Shell

Lawrence Choir Gives Sensitive Performance

BY DON VORPAHL

Lawrence College Concert Choir sang a seasonal program of simple dignity Thursday night before an audience of about 300 in Stansbury Theater.

Conductor LaVahn Maesch led his singers in an all-sacred concert of disciplined choral efforts, several commendable solo performances, and unusual acoustical properties.

The pleasing program was far from awesome, containing eight short songs and anthems, and one fairly imposing work, a Buxtehude "Missa Brevis," accompanied by a small instrumental ensemble.

But if its nature was not grandiose, it was stylized and quite sensitive.

These qualities, style and sensitivity, were attributable to at least two factors.

Cloaked in Warmth
First, Maesch's program revolved about a particular mood, the sacred, the sober music cloaked in warmth. There were Gretch-aninoff's "Cherub Hymn," Virgil Thomson's "My Shepherd will supply my need," William Dawson's "There is a Balm in Gilead," John Jacob Niles' "Never was a child so lovely," and at least two others, not to mention the fluid Buxtehude mass.

His singers thus could address themselves to a closely integrated pattern of expression; they did this fittingly.

Second, and most intriguing, the whole tone of this performance was colored by highly influential physical properties in Stansbury Theater, and, therefore, by the choir's and audience's response to those influences.

New Acoustical Shell
Last night, the choir used its new acoustical shell, identical to a borrowed one tested in last spring's formal concert. The effects in both cases were startlingly similar and imposing; an excellent sound projection resulted. The choir, sensing this audibility, responded with an unusually sen-hit of the night, and deservedly. In other solo parts, Alvin Gehart, Ken Anderson, Ann Clark Smith and Dick VanderBoemen presented moments of real interpretive strength.

The seven members of the instrumental ensemble gave, on the whole, a tuneful, appropriately light reading of the part in the "Missa Brevis."

These things pieced together make for strength of ensemble. There was a good holiday measure of that in last night's program.

Saint Nicholas Pays Surprise Visit

Friday, December 7, 1962 Appleton Post-Crescent A8

St. Nicholas, the saint whose feast day is celebrated Dec. 6, was a kindly and generous person from whom the tradition of Santa Claus has grown. The young Nicholas grew up in the Asia Minor portion of Turkey over 1600 years ago. He was a pious man who became Bishop of Myra. He gained fame for his generosity when he tossed bags of gold through the window of a poor nobleman, the money to be used so that three beautiful daughters might have dowries.

St. Nicholas' legend spread to other countries, and unexpected gifts were attributed to his goodness. In Holland, Dutch children wait for "Sinterklaas" to ride his white horse over the housetops and lower his gifts down the chimney. The early Dutch settlers brought this custom to America, and it is to them we owe much of our Christmas custom.

In many families today, St. Nicholas is only a loud sound at the door, and occasionally, if the children are quick, they will catch a glimpse of him scooting around a corner after leaving a gift of fruit and nuts. In some Dutch families, wooden shoes are set out by the children, who eagerly hope that their good behavior will rate gifts, not coals.

On St. Nick's Eve, Wednesday, the children in Ramlen Court were treated to a brief visit from St. Nick himself, dressed more as Santa Claus than the Saint of old. However he was garbed, his surprise visit was accompanied by all the youthful thrill of seeing the kindly gentleman in person, and telling him of hopes for Christmas.

"Ooooooh, Look Who's Here!" shouted John Guidotti, 3, when he opened the door to a tall, smiling fellow wearing the red and white of Saint Nicholas. John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Guidotti. The laughing-eyed 'saint' paid a brief visit to the youngsters of Ramlen court on the eve of his feast day. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Cissie Abitz, 3, above, hugged her dolls close as she greeted St. Nicholas Wednesday evening when the jolly fellow paid a surprise call on the children of Ramlen Court. Brother John, 6, in the background, looks as if he's not quite at ease with the gentleman. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Abitz.

Danny Kools, left, 3½, put his hand into Santa's with confidence when the kindly saint stopped at his house. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Kools.

Scott Sonleitner, 2½, right, didn't think the man with the long white beard was so fearsome. He sat on Santa's lap and laughed with joy at having Christmas come into his house a bit earlier than expected. Scott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Sonleitner.

Brighten Basement With Floral Mural, Paint Job

BY VIVIAN BROWN

The home can "cast a lovely light" if we do our best to brighten it, and make it cozy during winter months. Some readers are doing just that as letters indicate. Basements are being improved with color to erase dreariness, even if the room is visited only on wash day or to remove items from the freezer.

"We have just put an additional washroom in our basement and I thought it would be quite clever to open the basement door in our kitchen and be pleasantly greeted by a mural. The stairway is located under the upstairs stairway. I would appreciate some advice on some type of mural to put there."

If the area to be brightened is easy to be reached it could be livened with a mural such as a basket of flowers, vegetables or fruit. There are many such motifs available in precast papers or vinyls. Many people cut out designs from wall papers and paste them to areas that are to be brightened, first painting the area in a color to harmonize with the adjoining room. Bright yellow, flamingo, orange or blue are all good backgrounds if other colors tie in.

"At what age should a child move out of a nursery-style bedroom decorating scheme? What are the requirements necessary to the room so that it can be used over a long period?"

A child is ready for a new look in his bedroom at about 7 years. He is beginning to read and write and could use a desk, comfortable chair and adequate light. There should be book shelves that can accommodate records and record player. A chest for toys should be selected so that it can see later service for storage. Some area should be designated for games, hobby collections and such. Children like closets with shelves where their clothes may be kept within reach. A wardrobe should have a clothes rod that is low enough for a child to reach but adjustable for later years. A folding table, such as a bridge table, is almost indispensable to small fry, and will save rugs and bedspreads from paint splatters, etc.

"Why is it men do not appreciate the romance of a fireplace if there is any work involved," writes a woman who says, "we have lived in a pretty house five years but my husband never has let us burn wood in the fireplace as he says the white brick will get smoked up and look awful. Is there a way to remove scorch marks from the brick? My children and I have decided we must use it as it is ridiculous to have a conversation group of furniture built around it, and never have the pretty glow from the fire."

A fire built properly should not leave soot stain on the brick. After a period of use a little gray-tint pattern—add 10 cents for this pattern—add 10 cents for each pattern for 1st-class mailing. "My mother says we should not wash our wooden floors but our parquet floors are dirty and badly scratched. Waxing seems to imbed the dirt even more."

A well-known designer of small rugs, who displays them on just such a floor, advises us that he always washes his floors with a mild solution of soap and water, removing the solution with plain water and then drying the floor.

Handicrafts are among the most popular hobbies for people of all ages. Paint-by-number toleware pieces, mosaic tile ashtrays or candy dishes, copper-enamel jewelry kits, and sand or pebble pictures are favorite gift items. Talents can be turned at Christmas to create interesting and welcomed gifts from the do-it-yourselfers. At left, finishing touches are applied to a mosaic tile picture.

Do-It-Yourselfers Find Fun In Making Hobbycraft Gifts

Whether it's Aunt Helen, Cousin Tom or Sister Sue, there's always someone on your holiday gift list who has everything. What to give, especially if that someone with everything is extra special?

Many are solving this perennial problem with a gift they've made themselves from a hobby or craft kit.

Last Christmas, one 10-year-old boy scored a direct holiday hit by presenting his father with a model of the fighter plane he had flown in World War II. Looking through the family photo album, the dad discovered a picture of his dad climbing out of his pursuit ship after a mission. The hobby store had a model which was authentic from prop to tail. The only thing missing was the plane's pet name, "Belle," which the photo showed painted with a flourish midway between nose and cockpit. Junior fixed that.

Ship Kits Available

And for the man who has served "afloat" what could be more appropriate than models of U. S. Navy fighting ships? Also available in model boats and ship kits are sleek cruisers, motor boats and old-time sailing vessels.

Dad was thrilled on Christmas morning. Mother looked at the name on the plane and then looked at Dad. Her name was Margaret. Everyone got a big laugh when "Belle" turned out to have been the name of Dad's favorite cow when he was a boy on the farm.

Make Model Train

Model train kits—that all-time favorite — will be occupying a large number of hobbyists before Christmas. Last season, a grandmother spent a year making a model railroad, which rivaled in miniature the merger of the members of the immediate family may pose security problems. The whole "railroad Empire" was shipped to grandson in time for Christmas.

Model auto builders will find a full line of styles and vintage kits in kit form. Giving someone a new car for Christmas needn't be expensive . . . not if you make it yourself. Practically anything that can be done to a "live" auto is being done in miniature. Road racing in miniature has come to the fore these past few years. With the sets now available a duplicate of the famed Indianapolis Races can be run on the living room floor.

Handicrafts Popular

Handicrafts are still a most popular general make-it-yourself gift. For the lady on your list who takes special pride in her home furnishings, there are sand or pebble pictures, tile ashtrays, candy dishes, serving trays and paint-by-number toleware pieces. Copper-enamel earrings and cuff links, made from materials found in a wide variety of costume jewelry kits, are ideal gifts for fashion-minded friends and relatives.

Leather crafts offer hobbyists a great gift-making opportunity for the outdoor man on the list . . . quiver or arm guard if he's an archer, gun and map cases, belts, even a rugged woodsman's jacket.

Display Creative Talents

Handicraft kits are not only easy and inexpensive, they also afford the maker a chance to display creative talents.

Giving gifts with a personal touch is nothing new to the American scene. In Colonial days and later on the Frontier, isolated families exchanged Christmas presents which had been spun with fabric paint or indelible marker—before you stitch the right under the noses of the recipients.

Even today, making a gift for Display Your Creative talents this Christmas with handsome leathercraft gift items. Kits include belts, key cases, pocketbooks and wallets and can be purchased ready-to-make.

Your Problems

Identity Gets 'Sacked' When Fashions Decree Latest Styles

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What is to become of the American female if some high-fashion nut decides we should all wear laundry bags?

I am appalled at the sheep in-stinct of the style-conscious woman. Everyone wants to look like the president's wife. Common sense and judgment is out. "The Look" is in.

Short, squatty women drown in bulky tweeds. The boot devours five inches of leg from the shortie who should try for the longer look. The giraffe-type gets herself up in leopard spots and tiger stripes and looks eight feet tall. Everyone wants plaid hair and green eyelids.

A friend who came here recently from Japan said, "How do American men tell their women apart? They all look alike."

Why this craze for sameness? Are we becoming so neurotic we wish to lose our identity? Please explain.—Omnibus

Dear Omnibus: There is no explanation for the way women get themselves up. And there never was. In the 90's females suffered tortures in boned corsets. They wore tons of hair, layers of underskirts and high buttoned shoes.

Style satisfies the woman's need to be "in." In what, exactly, no one has been able to say.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read recently that you have received over a half million letters. I'll bet this will be the strangest letter of all.

I am the happiest woman in the world. My husband died last month. He finally drank himself to death.

The children no longer look at me with sad eyes and ask, "What is the matter with Daddy that makes him so mean? I no longer have to look myself and the little ones in the bedroom to protect us against their father's brutality and physical violence. Can you imagine what it does to a 12-year-old boy to have to help undress a father who has passed out and drag him out to a bed?"

I have always supported the family. How much easier it will be now with no liquor bills, jail fines and attorney's fees. On Thanksgiving I truly had something to be thankful for.—Free at Last

Dear Free: I would be hard-pressed to select the strangest letter I've ever received, but yours is surely one of the most heartbreaking. How sad when a father dies that there should be rejoicing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I suppose the solution to my problem has appeared in print some place, but I've never seen it. It is a headache which many mothers must share and I admit I don't know how to cope with it.

What can I do to get my 9 and 11-year-old children away from the TV set? Their lessons go unfinished, books received last Christmas have never been opened. I can holler my head off and it does no good. They watch everything and anything. Getting them to bed at night is a chore. I know they are not getting enough sleep on school nights.

Please give me some help.—Heap O'Trouble

Dear Heap: If the off and on buttons on your set don't work you can always pull the wall plug. TV viewing should be controlled, both in terms of hours spent and programs watched. You wouldn't allow your youngsters to eat garbage would you? Then why let them fill their heads with it?

TV has a great deal to offer children in the way of educational fare, but there is still plenty of junk. Parents who permit their kids to look at anything and everything are derelict in their responsibilities.

Gift Wrapped

Your personal touch on a gift makes it twice welcome. For it shows that you have given special thought to the recipient.

Ways to achieve a person-to-person note are numerous. But none is more sure than a wrapping that reflects the tastes or interests of the recipient. Purely as a springboard for your own ideas, these suggestions:

For a man's package, use green paper imprinted with holly-wreathed match books; tie with wide green ribbon and top with a large chocolate pipe. Or use plain-colored, glossy red paper, "monogrammed" with paste-on initials in gold.

To intrigue a lovely, wrap her gift in crinkly gold fashion foil and cap with a full-blown foil rose. The bloom is easy to make, as the foil handles like fabric.

With a traditional feeling, another scheme is to cover a box with matte-white gift paper, frame the edges in kitchen lace-paper edging, and then run narrow green and red ribbon through the lace.

AUNT HELEN OBJECTS
Dear Louise: A very dear friend has three children. They all call me "Aunt Helen" and when they do, I am always startled.

Louise Davis Answers:
Yes, I think you are. No doubt the children's mother encouraged "Aunt Helen" because she may feel that you are almost as close to her as a sister. I'm sure that her children consider you as somebody very special too.

WHEN GIVING IS BURDEN
Dear Louise: Should our children exchange gifts with their godparents at Christmas and birthdays? We have five and another is on the way. Sending gifts to all the godparents twice a year has become quite a financial burden.

Louise Davis Answers:
When gift giving becomes a financial burden, there is no obligation, even if the godparents continue sending gifts to your children. Since thank you notes are enough. For the children who are old enough to write, I hope you will encourage them to express their thanks too.

Gift ribbon, in green, and dotted with red berries that are circles of the same ribbon in red. The new velvety ribbon also makes the rose, which the stores will furnish full picture directions for along with the ribbon. It's pretty enough to wear Christmas day. New paper on this box is fabric-like, and can be used to make Christmas aprons, tree skirts and stockings for Santa to fill.

There was still time for East to lead hearts, but he was still afraid. East led another club, and Mathe won with the king.

As dealer, you hold: S-K Q J 7 6 2, H-9 6, D-A 2, C-A K J. What do you say?
Answer: Bid one spade. This is a very fine hand, but it is not worth a forcing opening bid. You can expect to win about 8 tricks, and you should usually have at least 9 tricks in your own hand to commit the partnership to game.

To Your Good Health
Hair - Pulling Can be Nervousness in Child.

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: My four-year-old girl has been pulling her hair for two years.

Is this a nervous condition? Who would I see about it, a skin specialist or a psychiatrist?
MRS. V.W.D.
Hair - pulling can be nervous habit in children, much the same as nail-biting or nose picking, and I wouldn't expect a skin specialist to be the appropriate source of help in such a case.

Neither would I think a psychiatrist would be the best choice, at least not at this stage. I'd look around home first, and do it carefully. What upsetting situations exist for the little girl? Is she jittery because she has to compete too hard for her share of attention? Is the household atmosphere tense? Is there bickering? Is the youngster being brought up too strictly? Or, on the contrary, is she being too much neglected?

Your family physician or your pediatrician might be most helpful. Or if there is a child-guidance clinic, or an expert in this field in your vicinity, I would heartily recommend seeking counsel from that source.

No Monopoly
Dear Dr. Molner: You wrote that "we manage to get what we need from what is available," meaning nutrition from food.

Does this mean that if any necessary vitamins (or whatever) are absent from food we eat, the body possesses the ability to manufacture such from whatever there is? Yes or no is all that is required.
T.A.Q.
Stop sounding like a stage-style lawyer. The answer is no, but I'm

Chapter Hears Meeting Report

KAUKAUNA—Miss Mary Ann Kalista reported on the state meeting at Milwaukee at the annual guest night meeting Tuesday of Omicron Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma at the Methodist Church.

Miss LaVerne Kniebusch, Madison, formerly of Appleton, was named an honorary member. Education and Christmas customs in France were discussed by Miss Christine Guerin, a French student at Lawrence College.

A program of German Christmas carols was presented by Miss Barbara Trachte, Appleton, and Miss Viola Loeb, Menasha.

Miss Myra Hill was hostess, assisted by Miss Frances Corry and Miss Lucille Haas.

The next meeting will be held Feb. 4 at Menasha.

going to give you some explanation in spite of yourself. What my statement means, and I believe I explained it at the time, is that no kind of food has a monopoly on vitamins or other necessities.

Not all climates can grow oranges, but you can get some Vitamin C from papayas, plums or pomegranates. Or from green, red or yellow vegetables.

We get Vitamin B-1 from wheat (and other sources). Elsewhere in the world, people get it from rice, or nuts, or beans. Pork is rich in Vitamin B.

Beef is one of our many sources of protein. In other places people may rely on fish, cheese, reindeer, chickens, wild birds.

We need a balanced diet. We need foods that contain certain basic elements. But in many parts of the world we can get balanced diets even though the foods may be strikingly unlike our own.

And that's why it is foolish to become wedded to a "health diet" that insists on some particular food.

Warm Water Best
Dear Dr. Molner: Is it true that for killing germs hot water and soap are more effective than cold water and soap? At what skin tolerance is hot water most effective?

C.M.
Yes, it's true but not because the water is hot enough to kill any germs. It's just that warm water dissolves soap faster. The proper temperature? As warm as is comfortable — a few degrees above body temperature is usually about right.

Sugar Test Wipe
Dear Dr. Molner: I know an elderly man who complains of his lips being dry most of the time. He also has a very great thirst, more so after supper. What do you suggest?
J.B.H.

Some elderly people have a tendency toward such dryness because of a decrease in secretions from the mucous surfaces. This can make them unduly thirsty. But excessive thirst also can be a sign of diabetes, so a sugar test would be wise for this man.

Shingles can be a painful disease! To receive a copy of my pamphlet, "The Facts About Shingles," write Dr. Molner in care of the Post-Crescent, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

LBJ, Humphrey Team Seen in 1964

BY VICTOR RIESEL

WASHINGTON, D.C.—A member of THE family soon will launch the boom or a trial balloon on which will be written: Bob Kennedy for President in '68. Whether this season has been chosen by accident or strategic design, with or without the Attorney General's knowledge and permission, the fact is that one of the trusted insiders will pique the public with the thought.

But all this must be based on the presumption that Vice President Lyndon Johnson cannot be nominated for president because of northern liberal-labor opposition. This once was true. No less a political scientist than the late "Mr. Sam" Rayburn so believed. He said so to former Ambassador Joe Kennedy, father of the President. They talked early in '59. The elder Mr. Kennedy had dropped in on the Democratic Party elder statesman. As Mr. Sam later related the discussion, it went this way.

Mr. Kennedy believed his son John could not get the nomination. He believed that JFK should seek the presidency in two steps—first as vice president, then as the head of the ticket.

Win Top Spot

The senior Kennedy then suggested that Mr. Rayburn attempt to win the top spot for Lyndon Johnson. Rayburn replied he'd like a Johnson-Kennedy ticket. But he did not believe the northern bloc would permit the Texan to break through.

The rest is history. But in this instance the past is not prelude. Mr. Johnson today has greater northern labor support than any other vice president ever had. Accomplishing this has not been easy. He has had to move as swiftly and constantly as did a secretary of labor by name of Arthur Goldberg. Mr. Johnson has gone to as many labor banquets and luncheons as an influential head waiter. There is virtually no labor project or vital Labor Dept. project, with which he is not identified or on which he has not been consulted. Few vice presidents have spoken to as many labor conventions. He has talked to steelworkers, he has talked to needle workers.

Almost unnoticed by the public, he has gone to a never-ending series of swearings in.

Jamaica Ambassador

Typical was his speech at the State Dept. ceremony marking the appointment of former letter carriers union chief William Doherty as Ambassador to Jamaica.

Johnson related how he and Doherty had gone to Jamaica's Independence Celebration. They were the two official U.S. delegates. Johnson said he had reported to President Kennedy later how well received was the "face of friendship which Doherty presented to the people of Jamaica." After recounting the above incident, Johnson added, "It is right and proper (that) the face of the U.S. in Jamaica will now be the face of friendship, the face of labor."

Earlier it was Johnson who was invited by Arthur Goldberg to be a star speaker at the off-the-record briefing of labor reporters in Washington. Thus when he was up in New York recently he was able to greet scores of union chiefs by their first names.

So it does not seem likely that the same bloc which tried to stop his vice presidential nomination in '60 will buck him in '68. They're for him. Which means, in effect, that they believe only the vice presidential place is open. This could be a Johnson-Kennedy ticket, at that. But there are those who see it differently.

Johnson-Humphrey Team

They talk of a Lyndon Johnson-Hubert Humphrey team for the '68 election.

Few are aware that the 54-year-old vice president and the 51-year-old senator from Minnesota were a quiet team in '60. Some of Johnson's people worked very

Farm Property Values Attain Record Level

Production Costs Up, Cash Income Down, Survey Shows

Wisconsin farm real estate values reached a new high this year while farmers were faced with increased production costs and lower cash income, according to the Wisconsin Crop Reporting Service.

The average value of Wisconsin farm real estate increased more than 1 per cent from March to July to reach a level 6 per cent above July of last year. This increase occurred while farmers were planning smaller crop acreages for 1962 and support prices for milk were being reduced. Throughout the year the monthly index of prices paid by Wisconsin farmers has been at a record high, while cash income was about 1 per cent lower than a year ago mostly because of lower milk prices.

National Average

The rise in the index of farm real estate values from March to July was greater for Wisconsin than the surrounding states and above the national average increase of 5 per cent. The new high in Wisconsin farm real estate values puts the index more than 50 per cent above the 1950 level. For the most part, Wisconsin farmers are increasing their purchases of fertilizer, farm chemicals, equipment and services which added to their production costs. Prices of goods and services used in farm production and family living have risen to a all-time high. Taxes on farm real estate have also increased but interest rates have leveled off.

Vocational Group Plans Meetings

WITTENBERG — The local vocational agriculture department, through the cooperation of the county district forester's office, have set up a series of meetings on forestry with emphasis on the farm woodlot. This class will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesdays in the high school agriculture room. On Tuesday the guest speaker will be Charles E. Rieck, supervisor, forest management division, conservation department, Tomahawk.

Talks at School

Waupaca Man Named DHIA Head

Three Other Directors Elected After Annual Meeting at Armory

WAUPACA — Roy West, Waupaca, was named president of the Waupaca - Waushara County Dairy Herd Improvement Association Wednesday afternoon during the annual meeting at the Waupaca Armory.

West is one of three newly elected directors. Others are Milton Hintz, Marion, and Allen Johnson, Waushara county. Douglas Thoma, New London, was re-elected secretary - treasurer. Dave Sexton, Royalton, is the outgoing president.

One of the highlights of the annual meeting was the presentation of honor certificates to regular DHIA members.

The certificates, presented by the Extension Division, University of Wisconsin, went to Leonard Kobiske, Waupaca, for 29 cows producing 14,076 pounds of milk at an average of 511 pounds of butter fat, a 500 pound honor roll certificate.

Production Merit

The 450 pound honor roll certificates went to Vance Johnson, Plainfield, 15 cows, 13,100 pounds of milk average and 457 pounds of butter fat; James Holman, Waupaca, 17 cows, 14,164 pounds of milk and 491 pounds of butter fat; R. H. Smith, Waupaca, 36 cows, 13,415 pounds of milk and 485 pounds of butterfat; Arnold Spiegelberg, Manawa, 27 cows, 13,708 pounds of milk, 479 pounds of butter fat, and Oscar and Donald Long, Weyauwega, 32 cows, 13,147 pounds of milk and 453 pounds of butter fat.

A certificate as Wisconsin DHIA fieldman until Dec. 31, 1963, was presented to Theodore A. Davidson.

The new equipment added this year was a stainless steel calipers with magnifying glass and light for more accurate and easier test result readings.

Calumet Farmers Increasing Use of IBM Computers

CHILTON — Use of electronic computers to keep dairy herd records is gaining popularity among Calumet County dairymen enrolled in the Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

At the present time, 64 of the county's 308 DHIA herds are under IBM computation. Weights and tests are sent to the state headquarters where they are processed by the computers. This saves the fieldman the job of hand figuring the records.

The county has 28.1 per cent of its milking cows on test by the DHIA to rank ninth in the state.

Seymour FFA Gets Agrarian Awards

Honors in 12 Categories Given to Future Farmers at Annual Dinner

SEYMOUR — Awards in 12 categories were made to vocational agriculture students of Seymour Union High School and their supporters Tuesday night at the annual Future Farmers of America father-son banquet.

The Seymour chapter's annual award affair was attended by 100 persons. Twenty-four students received the bronze emblem when they became members of the organization with the green hand degree.

Degree Requirements

Boys earning the degree must be enrolled in vo-ag, have a farming program started and must know the creed and purposes of the organization.

Advanced to the degree of chapter farmer and presented with the silver emblem were Curtis Ehler, Robert Krahn, Pat Krohlow, Carl Krohnoke, Richard Melchert, Gary Meyer, Jerry Mueller, Keith Mueller, Tom Mueller, Tom Peters, David Uhlenbrauck, David Reinke, Ron-

This award is the top honor conferred upon members on the local chapter. Only recipients of the green hand award and second year students in the local FFA program are eligible. Program improvement also is a requirement.

Three Calumet Ayrshire Herds Top in State

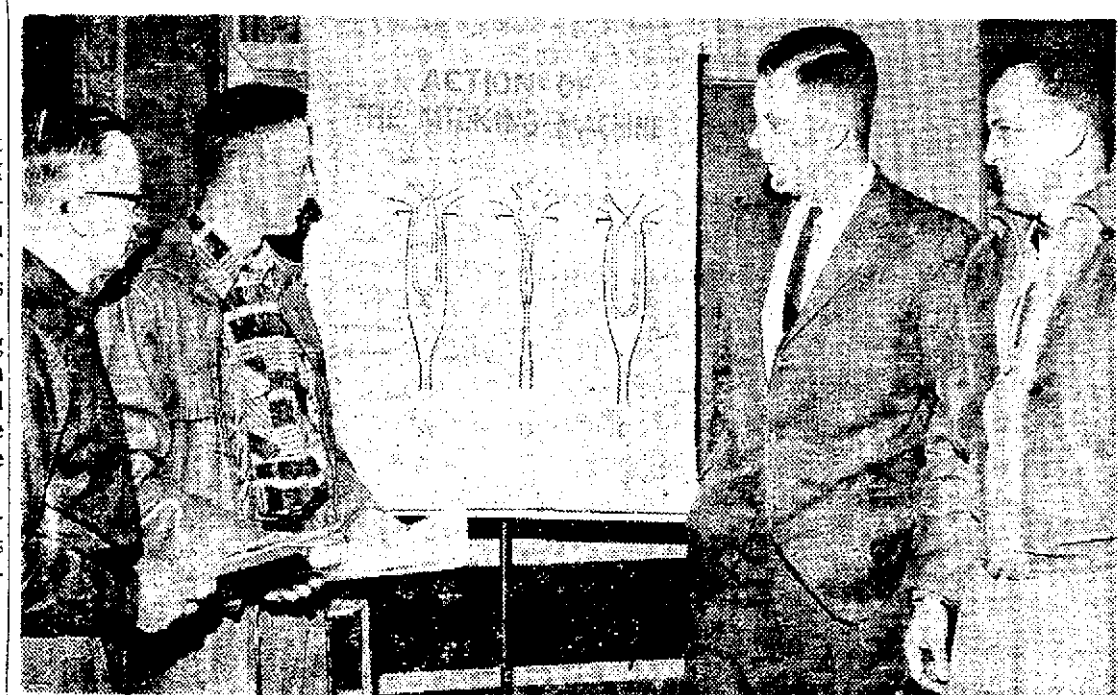

CHILTON — Led by the Allen Knoespel herd, rural Brillion, Calumet County Ayrshire herds took three of the four top herd placings in the state for the breed.

Orrin Meyer, county agent, has announced.

Knoespel has 36 Ayrshires averaging 417 pounds of butterfat per cow.

Not too far off the pace is the herd of Silas Ott and Son, Harrison. Comprised of 37 animals averaging 407 pounds of fat apiece, the herd placed second.

Another Brillion area dairyman, Ross Hacker, landed fourth place in the state with a herd that averaged 398 pounds of butterfat.

Outagamie Dairy Herd Improvement Association members discussed milking procedures with the speaker at the group's annual meeting. ## State Law Requires Simple, Honest Answers To Aid Consumer in Purchasing Groceries

What is it? Who made it, packed it, or distributed it? What is it made of? What quantity is in this package?

Wisconsin food laws require that every closed container in which food is offered for sale must bear a label on which answers to the four questions above are given. Dairy and food officials of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture suggested today that consumers will be aided considerably in

Find New Method To Obtain Honey From Bee Hives

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here are a couple of new ideas to outsmart the honey bee.

The Agriculture Department unveiled the improved methods today for getting honey from hives. They permit removal of the bees in a docile stage, the department said, and no bee veils are required to protect the beekeeper.

These two methods—involving use of dilute acetic acid plus smoke or propionic acid in a fume chamber—were described by Dr. Floyd E. Moeller, department entomologist at the annual meeting of the Entomological Society of America in Phoenix.

New Development
Dr. Moeller, working in cooperation with the Wisconsin Experiment Station in Madison, and Dr. Alan A. Woodrow, department entomologist in Tucson, developed the new approaches.

When these methods are used, Moeller explained, the bees leave the honey combs in about two minutes. He said no taste or odor is imparted to the honey and neither chemical is harmful to humans or to the bees.

The use of a smoke along with the acids tends to speed the bees' reaction and avoids their stupefaction.

These repellents used with smoke, repel the bees in full shade in cloudy, cool and rainy weather.

U.S. Farmers Like Things Compact; Canada Wants Size

CHICAGO — While designers of autos, steers and market hogs are going for the compact type, Canadian exhibitors of dairy cattle in the international livestock show here are extolling the virtues of bigness.

"We're showing Thornlea Reflection Belle again, last year's Grand Champion Holstein-Friesian cow," said Dave Houck, herd superintendent for Romandale farms, Unionville, Ontario.

"Belle weighs just 100 pounds short of a ton. We like 'em big," Belle produced more than 17,000 pounds of 4 per cent milk last year and 700 pounds of butterfat on two milkings a day, he said.

And a big milk wagon, he says, will produce more than a little one and do it economically.

Bred for Size
The Romandale herd, bred for size, includes Reflection Argus, the 2,000-pound senior yearling bull that won the junior sire championship at the Canadian Royal Fair, Toronto, two weeks ago.

Cows five years old average around 1,700 pounds. Most are daughters of the 2,800-pound bull, Lone Elm Texal Highcraft, or the offspring of their mating with ABC Reflection Song, another Paul Bunyan type.

Average Farm Income

The average person living on a farm last year had an income of $986, including $30 in government payments and $329 from non-farm work and other non-farm sources.

Waupaca Citizen Denied License as Livestock Dealer

The U. S. Department of Agriculture announced today that it has denied the application of Algy L. Olson, Waupaca, for registration as a livestock dealer under provisions of the Packers and Stockyards Act.

The decision, issued by USDA Judicial Officer Thomas J. Flavin, Nov. 9, is based on a report compiled by the Packers and Stockyards Division of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service.

During the year preceding submission of his application, USDA found, Olson issued "insufficient funds" checks totaling $8,333 for the payment of livestock in several transactions. USDA also found on Jan. 4, 1961, Olson issued a $6,305 check drawn against a closed account in payment for hogs, an act for which he was found guilty by the Calhoun County Court, Ill., of "unlawfully and feloniously obtaining property by means and use of the confidence game."

These activities are dishonest or fraudulent practices of the character prohibited by the P&S Act. USDA said, and indicate that Olson is unfit to engage in the activity of a livestock dealer and therefore should not be registered.

Wisconsin, Dairy Husbandry, spoke on "Better Milking Practices and Procedures." He stressed proper procedures in handling milking machines and mentioned the new solid non-fat milk test which may replace or be given in addition to the butter fat test.

60 Attend
About 60 people attended the annual meeting. They learned the DHIA laboratory was checked twice by the University of Wisconsin and twice by the State Department of Agriculture.

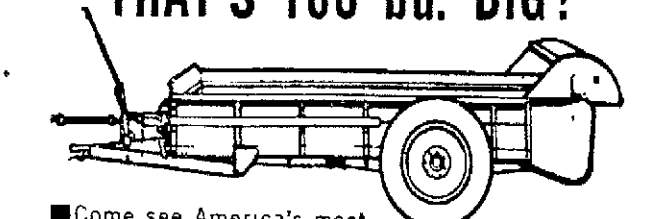

During November, the association had 336 members, which is a decrease from last year's membership. This was explained by the drop in dairy herds in the two counties. Thirty-six of the herds are using the IBM record system, which is optional to members.

There are about 40 regular members and the remainder are owner-sampler members.

Revenues for the year totalled $23,608 and expenses reached $22,183, leaving a net income of $1,424. The assets total $12,024.

Weed Killers Tested For Effects on Pines

UW Forest Researchers Find Four Poisons
To Provide Control Without Hurting Trees

MADISON — A battery of new weed killers have been tested for their effect on jack and red pines by University of Wisconsin forest researchers T. T. Kozlowski and J. E. Kuntz.

Daethal, Eptam, Vegedex and Randox all gave excellent weed control without hurting emerging jack pines. In fact, the seedbeds treated with these compounds produced more dry weight in pine seedlings than did untreated control plots.

Researchers say Daethal, Eptam and Randox worked well as either sprays or granules, when they were applied to the soil surface. However, Eptam granules worked into the soil, severely injured or killed the young jack pines.

Other Chemicals
Some other chemicals tested controlled weeds but harmed jack seedlings slightly. Seeding age at application time is an important consideration in selecting a chemical for use on coniferous seedbeds, the researchers say. They found that Daethal did not harm seedlings when applied just before or just after they came up. Lorox also was harmless to seedlings when applied at the little harm regardless of application date, researchers say. Eptam caused severe injury when applied either just before or just after seeds came up.

The researchers conclude that contact weed killers should be used with caution, preferably during the dormant season, or applied at seeding time, and at two and four weeks thereafter, needles.

Pesticide Men Plan Meet at UW

MADISON — Representatives of the pesticide industry will gather at the University of Wisconsin, Jan. 9 and 10 for their annual meeting on new developments in research on the industry.

The meeting will get underway with a panel discussion on pesticides in our lives. Scholarship winners will be announced at a luncheon that noon.

The afternoon session will feature discussions on legal aspects of aquatic pesticide use, mosquito control in an industrial waste lagoon, avoiding herbicide residue problems in soil, new developments in field crop weed control, fruit and vegetable disease controls, and others.

The following morning will feature discussions on insect control in forests, orchards, vegetable and field crops and dairy herds. This compound caused severe injury. But when application was delayed until the eighth week, seedlings were not harmed. The weed killer probably didn't leach down far enough to hurt the deeply-rooted, older seedlings. In contrast to propazine, Eptam caused little harm regardless of application date, researchers say. Eptam caused severe injury when applied either just before or just after seeds came up.

The researchers conclude that contact weed killers should be used with caution, preferably during the dormant season, or applied at seeding time, and at two and four weeks thereafter, needles.

While They Live . . .

Turkey Needs Include Feed, Blankets, Violets

WASHINGTON — Turkeys are eating less these days but enjoying it more — while they live.

The gobblers thrive on a new concentrated, high-protein diet that gives them more weight with less food, the National Geographic Society says. Four pounds of feed make one pound of turkey. A few years ago, the feed-meat ratio was six to one.

But the big birds must be pampered as well as fed. For the elite, there are electric blankets to warm their feet, fresh violets to please their palates, and tranquilizers to soothe their nerves.

An experienced and exasperated farmer explained why: "Turkeys are beautiful to look at, fragile as an orchid, and stupid beyond belief."

may be sent to market when only three months old and weighing seven pounds.

But a countertrend has developed recently. Breeders are creating a new strain of large turkeys. Many weigh 50 pounds, some up to 70, and a 100-pound turkey is on the horizon.

The monster gobblers aren't for apartment-house ovens, but they are ideal for restaurants and food-processing plants, which buy one-third of all turkeys.

Breeders foresee the day when turkey steaks, turkey chops, and turkey roasts will appear year-round on the table. But no one is rash enough to predict that a thigh-bone steak ever will replace a whole turkey, roasted and succulent, at holiday time.

Dairy Cow Numbers

There are now over 19 million dairy cows in the U. S. — about one for every nine Americans

A New England farmer lost 66 turkeys when the sonic boom of a jet plane frightened them. The farmer since has put a radio in the turkey house, and plays rock 'n' roll to accustom the birds to strange, loud noises.

Turkey farmers use assorted antibiotics and vitamins to keep their delicate charges in good health. A turkey suffering from mud fever, or blue-com, responds nicely to terramycin.

A Massachusetts farmer installed electric heating pads on the floor of his brooder house, so the poults would not get cold feet. In Virginia, some turkeys are fed wild violet buds, a delicacy reported to make the meat finely grained and flavorful.

Profitable Gobblers
Turkeys may give growers many a headache, but they are profitable. In 1961, farmers raised 108 million turkeys, compared to 66 million in 1955. Production has been cut slightly in 1962 to keep prices firm.

California, Minnesota, and Iowa are the leading turkey-producing states. But the No. 1 Turkey county is Rockingham, Virginia.

In the past decade, the Beltsville Small White, a midget turkey with lots of white meat, has become popular — to the despair of dark-meat lovers. A boon to growers, the broad-breasted bird

The lifeblood of a town can be drained by lack of vigorous, healthy farm expansion and improvement. # Pesticides Key To Better Crops

But Some Individuals Are Urging Curtailment, Ban on Their Use

BY JOHN E. POWERS
Outagamie County Agricultural Agent

For more than 75 years man has employed chemicals to control insects, fungi, rodents, weeds, and other pests. He is becoming increasingly more dependent on them. Modern agriculture, with its high quality foods and fibers, could not exist without the use of pesticides.

Individually we are urging curtailment of pesticide use and even the discontinuance of their use. Since our economy, health, and recreational activities depend in a large measure on the use of chemical pesticides, it seems important to make an objective assessment of this important subject.

1. Do we really need pesticides? This is hardly a debatable question. We not only need them, but we are highly dependent upon them — especially in the production of food crops. Without pesticides we would eat very poorly in terms of both quality and quantity.

2. Do these traces of pesticides constitute a health hazard to consumers? According to the best scientific evidence available, the traces that are allowed constitute no known hazard. The traces allowable are fixed by the Federal Food and Drug Administration. There are no known harmless chemicals — only harmless use of chemicals. This principle can be illustrated with table salt. As used in foods, salt is employed at a safe level; however, at higher levels, it becomes a poison. All chemicals have their safe and toxic levels.

3. Are pesticides offsetting the balance of nature? Mankind has been engaged in the process of offsetting the balance of nature since the beginning of civilization. Man's progress, in fact, is largely measured by the degree in which he is able to unbalance nature to his advantage. Modern agriculture, modern public health, and modern civilization could not exist without an unrelenting war against the return of a true balance of nature.

4. Do pesticides pose a serious threat to wild life? The harm man has done to wild life in clearing forests, tilling fields, draining wet places, polluting waters, and through urbanization is of much greater consequence than the relatively small and temporary losses caused from pesticide use. Of the total land and water area of the U.S.A., more than 95 per cent does not receive pesticides in a typical year. In wild life areas, which constitute about 75 per cent of the total land area, the figure is 99 per cent.

5. How much are pesticides misused? Blame Chemical To some extent of course, but such misuse is apparently no higher than occurs in any other human activity. The tendency in the case of pesticides is to blame the chemical rather than the person. When someone runs into a tree with an automobile, who gets the blame — the automobile or the man who misused it?

6. Are there satisfactory alternatives to the use of chemicals for pest control? As of today, no chemical control principles may do the job — such as planting disease resistant crop varieties. But, for the foreseeable future, we must continue to rely heavily on chemical methods to cope with the present pest problems.

The final solution depends upon further research. Everyone should learn more about this problem and a public conscientiousness will stimulate new approaches and new research — and even better control methods.

Study Ways to Beat 'Quack'

Several Chemicals Have Value for Controlling Weed

Several methods farmers can use to beat out quackgrass were outlined by a University of Wisconsin agronomist speaking at a North Central States Weed Control Conference.

K. P. Buchholtz pointed out that several weed killing chemicals have value for controlling this serious weed. Atrazine is the most important quackgrass control used today in areas where corn is grown, Buchholtz stated. It can be applied in several ways and does not reduce corn yields when used properly.

However, other crops are rather sensitive to residues of this chemical; applications of more than 2 pounds per acre can leave enough chemical in the soil to reduce yields of most field and vegetable crops for two years after application.

Dalapon is another chemical used for quackgrass control, he stated. Residues of this chemical do not last as long as atrazine residues, but can be very harmful to corn, soybeans, small grains, snap beans, and many vegetable crops. The material can be applied in the spring or fall, but planting must be delayed for about a month after a spring application. White skinned potatoes are tolerant of dalapon residues.

Treated Areas Combinations of chemicals sometimes allow crops to be planted on treated areas sooner than is the case with applications of single chemicals, Buchholtz stated. Cultural operations—such as repeated tillage—can control

Appleton Engineer Will Talk At Agricultural Convention

W. E. Witt, assistant chief engineer at Fox River Tractor Company will deliver a paper entitled "Self-propelled vs Towed Harvesters in Forage Harvesting," at the 1962 winter meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers at the Palmer House, Chicago, Dec. 11 to 14.

All phases of agricultural engineering will be explored in the four-day meeting and agricultural engineering exposition. In addition to more than 160 papers presented by experts in the field, there will be panel discussions with audience participation. More than 1900 agricultural engineers are expected to attend from throughout the nation.

The ASAE winter meeting covers four major divisions — power and machinery, electric power and processing, farm structures, and soil and water conservation — with sessions running concurrently in the four divisions beginning at 8:30 a.m. Dec. 12 to 14. The second annual agricultural engineering exposition will open at 1:00 p.m. Dec. 11.

One symposium will deal with tractor "roll bars," or "driver safety frames" to combat the danger of fatal accidents involving tractor roll-over. A joint conference Dec. 11 with the Farm Equipment Institute will consider "Tooling for Farm Profit."

A. W. Farrall, head of the agricultural engineering department, Michigan State University, East Lansing, is president of ASAE.

the weed. However, it is more difficult to do an effective control job with cultural practices alone.

Another technique is to "choke" the weed with a heavy crop of corn or soybeans, aided by a chemical. An example would be to apply 2 to 4 pounds of atrazine per acre in the fall or early spring, then plant closely-drilled corn at about 200,000 plants per acre — making sure the crop will have enough fertility and moisture to produce a dense growth. The corn can be used for forage or green manure at the end of the season, Buchholtz stated.

Another possible combination of a would be amino triazole and a soybean crop, which could only be used for plowing down. In all cases, you have to weaken the competitive crop before planting the competitive crop — Buchholtz emphasized.

Shawano Firm To Process Butter Oil

SHAWANO—Consolidated Badger Cooperative has been selected by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to process some 5½-million pounds of butter into butter oil.

Work on the new contract is scheduled to run from mid-December to Feb. 15 and will be carried out at the Shawano location of Consolidated Badger.

The processing of butter oil involves the removal of salt, moisture and curd from natural butter, leaving only the butterfat. Under the contract, the butter oil will be canned in 5½ lb. tins and packed in cases for export.

The butter oil will be made from surplus stocks held by the Commodity Credit Corporation, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

This is the second butter oil contract awarded Consolidated Badger by the U. S. Department of Agriculture this year. An earlier contract involved the processing of butter oil into 37 lb. metal pail containers. Work on this project is being completed.

Consolidated Badger's successful bidding on butter oil contracts has resulted in the employment of approximately 40 additional persons.

U.S.D.A. has offered bids to convert butter stocks into butter oil because the oil requires less storage space and it can be more easily preserved and transported.

On previous occasions from 1955-1957 Consolidated Badger was selected by U.S.D.A. to process stocks of butter into both butter oil and ghee for export.

Value of Soft Corn Varies With Moisture, Price Level

What's soft corn worth? That depends on the amount of moisture related to the current price of well-dried corn, according to Russell Luckow, Outagamie County farm and home management agent.

He says, for example, ear corn containing 20 per cent moisture would be worth 89 cents per bushel if No. 2 dry corn is selling for $1.

How does he arrive at the figure? Luckow drops the price of the soft corn about 1.5 per cent for each per cent of moisture in the corn above 14.5 per cent. If you figured the above example out, you'd get the 11 cents drop in price.

Luckow says the figures include both computed and hidden shrink in weight as the corn dries. But the figures do not make allowance for the cost of drying or for foreign material

Don't Buy Any Spreader Till You See the New

JOHN DEERE "33" DAIRY SPREADER

The low profile, the big capacity, and the clean design of the John Deere 33 Dairy Spreader is just what you have been looking for . . . and its low cost will please you.

With 20-inch wheels, the 33 spreader is only 47 inches high . . . extra low for use with a barn cleaner. The 52 inch width makes it easier and faster to fill the 33 Spreader with an overhead track manure conveyor. You save time anyway you handle manure.

The 33 Spreader has a combination beater-wide-spread with aggressive diamond-shaped teeth welded to the outer edge of right and left turning spirals. These teeth pull the manure inward and upward so there's no building up or packing in wet or freezing weather.

This 139 bushel spreader is completely PTO powered. It can be unloaded standing still if you prefer to stack your manure instead of spreading during the winter.

Charge Youth With Homicide In Conduct Case

New London Boy Held on $2,500 Bail Until Court Trial

WAUPACA—A charge of homicide by reckless conduct — was filed Thursday against Alvin L. Jones, 19, 312 Elm St., New London, before Municipal Justice George Whalen.

Jones was ordered held for County Court Bail was set at $2,500. Jones failed to raise the sum and was committed to county jail.

Jones, who also was charged with driving without a driver's license, was the driver of a car in which James A. Dahms, 15, New London, was killed Dec. 1.

County police said the car was going north on U.S. 45 and missed a curve about 2:09 a.m. three miles north of New London. Dahms died of a skull fracture. Jones also was injured.

County police sergeant, Lyle McCully, who investigated the accident, said he saw the car leave New London at a high rate of speed without headlights a short time before the accident. Sgt. McCully said he followed the car but lost it in the fog and darkness.

Outagamie Committee Told $5,000 to $10,000 Project Will be Finished Feb. 1

Property description surveys on 54 parcels needed for construction of the new Outagamie County airport will be conducted by Daniel E. Gaffney, consulting engineer from Green Bay.

The county board's Airport Committee today approved a cost-plus contract between the county and Gaffney after a modification was made in the original contract presented to the committee.

The committee has the power to approve contracts for the airport project because of a resolution passed by the county board.

The only modification in the contract, as presented by Gaffney, was for changing auto mileage expenses from 10 cents per mile to 8 cents per mile. Supv. John Dietz (Appleton 13th), a committee member, didn't approve of the 10 cent figure, because the standard state figure was 8 cents. Both Gaffney and the committee agreed to change the rate to 8 cents.

Complete by Feb. 1

Gaffney said he expected to have the survey completed by Feb. 1. Before state or federal aid can be given on the project, each of the 54 land parcels needed for the airport construction must be surveyed. The surveys are necessary before purchases can be made or land condemnation can proceed. On an accelerated program, the survey could possibly be completed quicker, Gaffney pointed out.

Of the 54 parcels, 47 are land parcels and 7 are for air rights. The same procedures must be used for air rights acquisition as for land acquisition.

Gaffney actually began the survey Nov. 14 at the request of Mark Catlin, Jr., committee chairman, but the committee's formal approval couldn't be obtained because there were no meetings until today.

24 Persons Take Papers At City Hall

Appleton residents continue to take out nomination papers for the 1963 spring election.

City Clerk Elden Broehm reported today that 24 persons have obtained papers for various offices during the past week.

The deadline for filing the papers is Jan. 29. The terms of 10 aldermen, 11 county board supervisors and three school board members expire next year.

The latest to take out papers are John A. Schneider, 628 E. South River St., who has served 10 years on the board of education and is seeking his sixth term, and Ald. Edward V. Krueger, 1707 S. Carpenter St., a former school commissioner who is rounding out his first term on the common council.

Two more residents filing papers, putting them on the official candidate list, were Harry J. Cunningham, 626 E. Brewster St., 17th Ward supervisor, and Ald. Richard G. Huisman, 1002 N. Superior St., on this basis. "This is a reasonable method of procedure," he explained.

Members of the committee were satisfied that the cost was reasonable and that the survey itself would not interfere with the letting date for the actual construction contracts.

He assured that the committee that his firm's records will always be open to all county board members. "This is the only way for a cost plus contract to be successful," Gaffney said.

Inspector Says City Firehouse Is Threat to Public Safety

Building Inspector Walter Bogan has warned city officials that the city's 78-year-old fire department headquarters at Oneida and Washington streets is posing a threat to public safety.

Bogan was requested to make an inspection of the fire station roof by Henry Crowe, acting director of public works.

During his investigation, Bogan discovered the bricks are loose on the Washington Street side of the building and are in danger of falling to the sidewalk.

"The parapet wall on Washington Street is in bad shape," Bogan informed Crowe and the Board of Public Works in a letter.

"The cause for this," he explained, "is that the fire alarm cables are pulling to the inside and have tipped the wall so much that the bottom row of bricks can be taken out."

Bogan said the bricks at the top of the building are loose, and in one place, some are lying on the cornice. "I recommend this be repaired at once," Bogan said.

First Report

Originally, Fire Chief Roland Kuehl had reported to city officials that the chimney atop the building was "falling apart" and he also pointed out the roof was in need of repair. The chief feels a new station should be constructed as soon as possible for the safety of his men and more efficient operation of the fire department.

Since the chief's complaint on the condition of the chimney, it has been repaired by the street department.

Bogan said in his report that he believes the roof would last a few more years if given some type of roof coating.

The board of public works has requested Bogan to obtain an estimate on the cost of repairing the brick parapet wall.

Earlier in the week, the common council authorized the board to negotiate for the purchase of two parcels of property on the near northside as the site for a proposed new fire station building.

Purse, $15 Taken

Mrs. Martin Hintz, 26 Foster Court, told police today her purse was taken from her car about 8 p.m. Thursday while the car was parked in the 900 block of N. Durkee Street.

Mrs. Hintz said the purse had $15 in it.

Couple Charged With Buying Minors Beer Enter Innocent Pleas

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Vanden Bloomer, route 1, Kaukauna, have pleaded innocent to procuring beer for minors and will face trial Jan. 23. They appeared before Judge Stanley Staidl in Outagamie County Court, Branch 1 today.

The two were allegedly involved in a beer party at their home in Kaukauna Oct. 14 in which several minors were present. Seven Kaukauna youths pleaded guilty in the procurement of beer and were sentenced to jail terms and fines Dec. 2 by County Judge Gustave Keller.

An attorney for the Vanden Bloomers filed affidavits of prejudice against Judge Keller and the matter was transferred to Judge Staidl.

Appleton YMCA Raises $600,000 In $1.5 Million Building Fund Drive

Wausau Man Addresses Group at Advance Gifts Kick-Off Dinner

The Appleton YMCA has raised $600,000 in its $1.5 million capital funds campaign to build a new YMCA, campaign general chairman Bruce Purdy announced at the advance gifts kick-off dinner Thursday.

William E. Buchanan, Guy E. McCorison and a committee have been working for several months in securing large gifts. Purdy also indicated several other large gifts are expected soon.

The advance gifts section of the campaign, headed by John Reeve, Elmer Jennings and Harwood Orbison, is expected to raise $450,000 within the next two weeks.

Orbison said, "My grandfather and other dedicated YMCA men raised $100,000 in a seven-day period in 1913. With today's economy at such a high level, the raising of $450,000 in two weeks should not present a problem."

Position of YMCA

Some 80 diners heard T. A. Duckworth, executive vice president of Employers Mutual of Wausau, tell of the position the YMCA occupies in the present social structure.

Duckworth said, "As you launch this drive for $1,500,000, it is a time for humility and a time for high resolve. If your new YMCA is to serve the most important needs of your community, you must have purpose and inspiration to match the building. Your campaign leaders must feel the $1,500,000 goal is realistic and be convinced that it is a tremendously necessary project.

"You will be building much more than a sturdy and beautiful edifice, he said. "You will be roofing in and nurturing some of the noblest of human beings and ideas. You will be building quality into your present and future generations — invaluable guarantees for tomorrow. The people of Appleton firmly believe in this principal for you have fostered and developed one of the nations most outstanding liberal arts colleges.

"Greatest Opportunity"

"In this age when men are digging into the earth to protect themselves from atomic rockets and nuclear power, you are planning to build upward upon foundations of hope rather than fear," he said. "In such building lie the only certain and enduring shelter for mankind. The building of a new YMCA is the greatest opportunity you will ever have to show what a community can do under our free enterprise system.

The advance gifts section started solicitation today and will make reports at four scheduled noon luncheon meetings at the YMCA on Monday, Dec. 10; Thursday, Dec. 13; Monday, Dec. 17, and Thursday, Dec. 20.

Fox River Boaters Ask More Convenient Hours To Arrange Lockage

Army Corps Engineers Receive Suggestions at Appleton Hearing

Boaters requested more convenient means of arranging lockage outside of regular hours at a public hearing on lockage regulations and hours on the Fox River between De Pere and Menasha Thursday.

Representatives of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers received the suggestions at a public hearing in the Appleton City Hall.

Col. J. A. Smedile, district engineer, Chicago, said a review of the 1962 locking procedures, revised last May, shows that substantial savings to the government have resulted, together with improved service to the boating public.

After a study of the revised procedures, formal amendments of the regulations will be submitted to the Secretary of the Army for his approval.

Normal Lockage Times

Under 1962 regulations, normal lockage times without prior request were 8 a. m. to midnight at the De Pere and Menasha locks, and 10 a. m. to 7 p. m. at all intermediate locks. Additional lockage times with advance request were 7 p. m. to midnight at all intermediate locks, and 8 a. m. to 10 a. m. at the Appleton locks.

Harold Haak, director of the Appleton Yacht Club, said the system had worked quite well at the Appleton lock, but requested an adjustment so that, with advance notice, boats leaving De Pere at 8 a.m. could make a continuous trip upriver without being held up at the intermediate locks. This would affect the Little Kaukauna and Rapid Crouche locks.

Haak also asked whether any of the regular employees had suffered a loss of income as a result of the new regulations. Col. Smedile said he would look into it.

Carillon Bell, P.A. System Put in Church

KIMBERLY — An electronic carillon bell and loud-speaking system has been installed at Mount Calvary Lutheran Church through the generosity of various parishioners.

The system was donated by brothers wishing to remain anonymous after which Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kosbab presented the church with a cash memorial for housing the electronic system.

The housing was designed by Martin Rackow and built by Clarence Lodholz. Erection of the system to the top of the church and electrical wiring was handled by Joseph and James Frassetto.

Expanded Program

For several months the bells were sounded over the loudspeaking system to mark the start of services, but with the arrival of the Rev. Frederic Kosanke, the program has been expanded as the new pastor plays musical vespers from 5 to 6 p.m. each Saturday.

Records played over the system are of a type not readily available to everyone and feature many Lutheran choirs besides European renditions of various hymns. During the Christmas season many carols will be played.

Name on Committee

NEENAH — Gary Webb of Neenah and Mary O'Hara of Oshkosh have been named as committee chairmen to help formulate plans for selection of queen of the Carrol College winter formal dance at Waukesha.

Five candidates for queen have been named. She will be crowned at the dance Dec. 15.

The 5203rd Brigade is one of the first in the Army Reserve to receive the new designation.

Lt. Colonel Ronald Evans, Appleton, is commanding officer of the 5203rd. Executive officer is Lt. Colonel Talbot Peterson, Appleton.

Discuss Study Unit Consider Formation of Council in Fox Cities

A national committee to adopt the constitution and by-laws for the organization. Gegan has been serving as acting chairman.

Membership Plan

Public and parochial schools will have the opportunity to join the study council. The group will meet four times per year and a budget will be set up based on the number of schools participating with fees to be charged member schools depending on the number of teachers in the system.

Schools represented at the informative meeting of council leaders included Oshkosh State College, Oshkosh, Menasha, Kimberly, Appleton, Weyauwega, Green Bay, Kaukauna, Chilton, North Fond du Lac, Neenah, Seymour Union High, Ripon, Brillion, Denmark, Reedsville, Allouez, Preble, Suring, New London, South Door County, Kewaunee, Shawano and Berlin. Also present was the Fond du Lac County superintendent of schools.

Time Extension Asked on Lake Reclamation Project

Engineers Say Action Will Be Taken Soon

NEENAH — The City of Neenah's request for an extension of time to have the southern end of Little Lake Butte des Morts filled in is presently being considered by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers District at Chicago.

According to City Clerk R. V. Hauser, the City of Neenah submitted a written request on Nov. 20 to the Corps of Engineers in Chicago. In a written reply this week, the U.S. Engineers Corps noted that a public notice regarding the city's request would be issued soon, and that the city would be informed of subsequent action taken.

The area being filled in was deeded to the City of Neenah by the Wisconsin legislature in 1951, and is being filled by Bergstrom Paper Co. wastes per agreement with the city. The portion of Little Lake Butte des Morts being filled in lies just north of Main Street and the Soo Line tracks in Neenah. After fill is completed and a retaining wall constructed, the reclaimed area should provide about 35 to 50 acres of land usable for city recreational and other purposes.

Started in 1953, Bergstrom Paper Co. completed construction of a $285,000 filter plant for settling out wastes from its de-inking process. The treated wastes, the major component of which is a clay sludge which cannot be burned, is being used to fill in the area.

Operation of the new waste treatment plant by Bergstrom Paper Co. results in a considerable benefit to the Neenah - Menasha sewage disposal plant which formerly handled the wastes through the sewage system. Since the sewage disposal plant burns the wastes, the receipt of the clay solids from the paper company created an undue burden.

The waste treatment plant at Bergstrom was built to handle about 600,000 gallons daily of the de-inking process wastes, which resembles muddy water. When the solid matter in this water is finally settled and filtered off by the company's treatment plant, it is carried by a conveyor to a dump truck. The gray putty-like sludge is then trucked to the lake site and dumped for fill.

About 55 or more tons of this wet sludge are transferred to the fill-in site each day. Dry weight, this represents about 15 tons daily. Dikes are built out of dirt and stone into the swampy part of the lake in this area and the clay waste is then filled in behind the dikes and leveled off.

According to Wayne G. Bryan, Neenah director of public works, this project was originally thought to be about a 40-year job. However, filling in this area has been progressing at an accelerated pace, so that the desired area might be filled in by the end of a 30-year period. Bryan also noted that time extensions on the project are required because the U.S. Corps of Engineers usually issues permits periodically (about every 5 years) to continue such a long-range program.

'Castillion Gold' Request Holds Up Truck Approval

The Appleton Board of Public Works has held up approval of specifications for a custom-made truck for the city sealer of weights and measures because he specified that it must be of "Castillion Gold" color.

City Sealer Roger LaBeige requested the truck recently and the common council allocated funds for its purchase. LaBeige was requested to prepare specifications so bids could be taken. When spotting the specification that the color be of "Castillion Gold," Ald. Robert Stumpf (9th) raised the question as to whether the color was in effect a trade name and would exclude any truck dealers from the bidding.

"It would be unfair to other bidders if they could not qualify for consideration because of a specific color being listed," Stumpf said.

Board members thought the specs should read "Castillion Gold or some similar color."

The opinion was also expressed that the proposed new truck should be the same color as other municipal vehicles.

The specifications were sent back to LaBeige to clarify the color question.

Chicago Firm to Check Need for Twin City YWCA

Board of Directors Will Have Borings Made Within Next Week

NEENAH — A survey of community needs, interest and support preceding the survey. Test borings will be made next week. Neenah - Menasha was approved this week by the board of directors of the Y. Such a survey, which will be conducted by a professional organization, is necessary before further consideration of a new YWCA building, the directors said.

The Y has for the last 10 years been thinking in terms of a new building. The present building, located at 133 N. Commercial St., has proved inadequate because of limited space and facilities and participation.

Early in 1962 the board of the YWCA, a Community Chest organization, requested permission from the Community Chest to have a survey of the community to see if a new building was desired and if it would fill the needs of the community as a whole. The Chest directors granted the request.

Name Survey Firm
Mrs. C. F. Pervier, executive director of the YWCA, stated the board has had to do a great deal of preliminary work before a survey could be taken and they felt it was vitally important to move slowly and thoroughly. Beaver Associates of Chicago have been hired to come into the community to make a survey with the work to be done in the spring of 1963.

"The reason for the time lag," Mrs. Pervier stated, "is that certain preliminary work must be done first. An architect must be engaged, site location must be considered, as well as many aspects of future needs and program must be gone over."

The board has hired Shattuck, Stewart Associates, Inc., as architects to do the preliminary work preceding the survey. Test borings will be made next week. Neenah - Menasha was approved this week by the board of directors of the Y. Such a survey, which will be conducted by a professional organization, is necessary before further consideration of a new YWCA building, the directors said.

A steering committee of prominent businessmen also has been selected to advise the YWCA on final preliminary plans and to analyze survey results.

Study Uses
A survey committee of women of the YWCA presently is coordinating a possible program in a new building which might include swimming facilities for men, women and children; Y-Teen center, physical fitness program for men, women and children; craft classes; nursery school; handball for men; possible steam baths; club facilities; a large gymnasium and other facilities available for rental purposes.

Money for the community survey, scheduled this spring, has been given to the Y by members and by Y organizations through the fall bazaar last October. No Community Chest funds are being used for the survey or preliminary work.

Neenah Boy Hurt In Fall From Car; Receives Bruises

OSHKOSH — Larry Buck, 10, 133 John St., Neenah, was injured at 7:50 p.m. Thursday when he fell from the car in which he was riding at Green Bay Road and State 114.

Wayne West, 29, 819 Helen St., Neenah, driver of the car, told county police he was turning north onto Green Bay Road and the right rear door of the car opened. The boy suffered bruises to his left ankle, foot and knee, police reported.

Skybolt Missile May be Ordered To Go Into Discard

WASHINGTON (AP)—The trouble-plagued Skybolt, an air-launched missile that gave the manned bomber hope for longer life, may be headed for the discard.

A final decision has not been made. But informed sources say that as of now Defense Department budget drafters are not planning to allot money for the 1,000-mile-range missile next year.

These sources said the project is in serious trouble—and not only because the Skybolt has suffered five test flops in a row.

It was reported the Skybolt has lost favor with top Pentagon officials.

They were said to have come around to the view that by the time it is ready in any numbers the pre-eminent role in U.S. nuclear striking power will have been assumed by the Polaris submarine-launched missiles and intercontinental ballistic missile.

The Air Force has been aiming to get the Skybolt combat-ready by October 1964. But the dismal test record so far may have pushed the operational date farther down the road.

Applicants to be Interviewed for 3 County Police Posts

OSHKOSH — Applicants for the Winnebago county police department will be interviewed next Thursday night by the sheriff and coroner's committee.

Three additional patrolmen will be hired to start Jan. 1. The additions were authorized by the county board at its budget session in October.

Reds Talk Against China, Albania

Two Communist Meetings Furnish Test of Russian Leadership

BY GEORGE WELLER
Chicago Daily News Service

ROME — In Italy and Czechoslovakia two simultaneous Communist Congresses are furnishing a torrid test of strength in the power struggle between China, and Russia.

So far the rhetoric is tending heavily against China and Albania, in favor of Russia and Yugoslavia. But North Korea and Albania, China's allies,—are banned from both congresses. Cuba and Britain are doing some able fence straddling in spite of intense efforts by the Balkan satellites to push them into Nikita Khrushchev's camp.

The Italian party, with 1,700,000 members the largest in the Western world, and the Czech party, the most slavishly faithful to Moscow's edicts, have one common characteristic that tends to suppress any Chinese support. Both are led by ex-Stalinists—Palmiro Togliatti in Italy and Antonin Novotny in Czechoslovakia—who have spent six years under Khrushchev's leadership busily eradicating their Stalinist past.

For them to back China, where Joseph Stalin's cult still exists, would mean an open break in the party and political suicide.

The Italian Congress salutes every mention of "Comrade Fidel Castro" with cheers, but Blas Roca, the sleek, mustached theorist of the Cuban Communists, carefully refrained from abusing China or even Albania. Six times he mentioned Russia with gratitude and once he mentioned China. R. Palmer Dutt, the stooped little Anglo-Indian lawyer who speaks for British Communism, damningly praised the Chinese for their "noble initiative" in withdrawing their troops from India. He carefully distributed criticism equally between the two secondary targets, Albania and Yugoslavia.

Indian Party

Indian party members, many of whom have been jailed by Jawaharlal Nehru, are absent from both Rome and Prague. But curiously there is relief over their enforced absence rather than the customary hand wringing.

The Japanese Communist Masayoshi Oka, for whom the Sino-Russian struggle is a terrible dilemma, ignored it completely and even ducked Albania and Yugoslavia.

In Prague, where Western correspondents are barred, the Chinese threw in against Russian President Leonid I. Brezhnev their able Gen. Wu Hsu-Chan, the cold-eyed diplomat-soldier who confronted American negotiators in Korea 10 years ago.

slavia's Marshal Tito's current trip to Moscow.

Red Ambassador

Few Chinese know Tito better than Wu because he was Peking's Ambassador in Belgrade after his Korean duty.

The Czech censors suppressed from Czech newspapers and radio an attack on Stalin's "cult of personality" by the Party Secretary Novotny. For censors to withhold from internal news media portions of a high-level speech being transmitted abroad is unusual. In this case Novotny evidently thought that Czechs weren't ready to hear about the "grave errors" of the Prague trials of 1949-1954, which had a heavily anti-Semitic content.

Italy's Communists maintain an open door policy, allowing press access to the speech making but not to the committee sessions tonight.

Reds in Cuba Building Underground Forts

NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet troops in Cuba are reported engaged in the construction of underground fortifications and additional airfields throughout the island, the New York Times said today.

A Washington dispatch by Tad Szulc said "A detailed report on these activities, dated Nov. 29, was received from Havana through anti-Castro intelligence channels," adding: "The report stressed that while some Soviet military camps had been closed, all indications were that many Soviet units and advisers remained in Cuba."

Reporter Bill Carey rounds up tax questions posed of the City Treasurer as he prepares his special gift for the public: a special weather forecasting system is ready to help the highway and street departments be forewarned of the big snows; it's all in this Sunday's Post-Crescent.

DO WE KNOW THE CAUSES OF ANXIETY?

YES ☐ NO ☐

Yes, or at least we know some million mentally retarded individuals, four and one-half million. One of the most important is fear of the unknown. When dial phones first came in, some people were afraid to use them and felt anxious about making a telephone call. In a strange environment, when people do not know what to expect and are not sure how they should act, they are likely to feel anxious. Thus, in one situation, a person may be bold and courageous; in another, he is timid and cautious. Notice how you act in different situations.

Mental illness hits millions of people.

Island First Visited

True. It is estimated that one of every 10 Americans needs professional attention for some kind of mental or emotional illness at some time during his life. In World War II Celebes was occupied by the Americans and in addition there are close to five million mentally retarded individuals, four and one-half million problem drinkers and more than two million persons who have committed crimes serious enough to bring them to court. Mental illness is a concern for each of us. Education about mental illness can help alleviate the concern. For this reason, we offer the hard-hitting booklet, "When Mental Illness Strikes Your Family." A copy's yours for 25 cents and your name and address sent to this column, care of this newspaper. Saturday Night's Game: Pennings at St. Mary.
Sunday Night's Game: Pennings at St. Mary.

BY RALPH MUELLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
Coach Gene "Torchy" Clark is using a "Morse Code" lineup these days to signal Fox Valley Catholic Conference teams that his Xavier Hawks should not be taken lightly.

Actually, there's little chance anyone is going to take the Hawks lightly in view of the fact they are the circuit's defending champions. This includes the Hawks' Sunday night opponents, Little Chute St. John. The game is set for 8 p.m. Sunday in Little Chute.

DePere Pennings and Menasha St. Mary will open a week-end slate of games when they clash at the Menasha High School gymnasium tonight. Green Bay Premontre invades St. Mary Springs at Fond du Lac and Marinette Catholic journeys to Oshkosh to engage Lourdes in Saturday night affairs.

The Xavier "Morse Code" line-up consists of four "dots" and a "dash." A quartet of 5-10 cagers play the role of the four dots while the dash is portrayed by 6-2 center John Heinritz. The smaller boys are "Kip" Whittinger, Dick Wiesner, Dick Zanzig and "Rocky" Bleier.

One League Game
Two of the four dots, Whittinger and Wiesner, rank third and fourth in the FVCC scoring race despite the fact that they have played only one game. The Hawks defeated Marinette in their only league test.

St. John dropped a 63-49 decision to Pennings its only league start thus far. The Dutchmen feature a promising sophomore in

Pat Richter Will Receive 'Lineman of the Year' Award

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wisconsin football end Pat Richter, who has been hopping around the East catching awards this week, will be here tonight to make another reception.
Richter, named to the Associated Press All-America team Thursday, will be honored at the silver anniversary dinner of the Pigs Club as the "national intercollegiate lineman of the year."
Other honors this week included selection on the all-American knuckles at the base of his two team of Look Magazine. He will middle fingers.
He also was restricted ribbons dinner tonight to be in Washington of the season by hip and rib injuries. He suffered the finger injury, now healed, in the Iowa National Football League.

Honored tonight with Richter, who will play with the Badgers in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day, will be Oregon halfback Mel Renfro, selected by the Pigs Club as back of the year.

Texas Western Quint Meets MU and UW This Weekend

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Marquette basketball Warriors, impressive in winning their first start of the season, will test their high-powered offense against defensively tough Texas Western tonight in the Arena.

The Texans, 18 and 6 last season, and winner of both games in the new season, come to Milwaukee with big hopes. After their date with the Warriors they will move over to Madison for a game with Wisconsin on Saturday afternoon.

"They keep it and keep it and keep it," Warrior Coach Ed Hickey said as he made plans for tonight's game. "They wait for a good shot, and if you're not careful all of a sudden they get it."

Only 56 Points
In 24 games last year, Texas Western opponents averaged 56 points a game and opposition has averaged only 43.5 in the two games this season. The early victims were Sul Ross and Wayland.

All five Texas Western starters are back from last season's campaign and they have a new man, Jim Barnes, 6-foot-8, whose appearance doesn't mean any loss of strength. He scored 44 points in two games.

Nolan Richardson and Willie Brown are all-Border conference guards and the other two returnees are Bob Lesley and Bobby Hill. Another regular last season, Danny Vaughn, is handicapped with a bad knee.

Bob Hornak and Lee Borowski, Dave Erickson and Ron Glaser and Dick Nixon will form the starting five. Nixon had the best game of his Marquette career against Wake Forest, pouring in 26 points.

Badgers Play First Home Game Saturday
MADISON (AP) — The University of Wisconsin basketball team, showing a victory and a defeat in the young 1962-63 season, opens its 15-game home schedule against Texas Western Saturday afternoon.

The second home encounter is set for Monday against Indiana State.

In winning the opener against Air Force Academy, 72-64, and losing to Arizona, 51-46, Wisconsin got off to a faltering start on what is expected to be another good season.

The Badgers made an impressive second place finish in the Big Ten conference last season, highlighting it with a routing round of the champion, Ohio State.

Badger Coach John Erickson found no reason to be downhearted after Arizona pulled the unexpected.

"We were a little off," he declared and then singled out the major reasons for losing—only 10 out of 25 free throws and too many rule violations.

Badgers "Flat"
He conceded Arizona played "inspired" basketball and that his team was "flat." "We were out of tune all night against Arizona and never got our timing," he added.

Western will meet the Badgers with the experience of three games. The Miners beat Sul Ross State of Alpine, Texas, 63-46, and Wayland Baptist of Plainview, Texas, 81-41. They face their third foe, Marquette, in Milwaukee tonight.

Erickson is expected to start five returning lettermen. They are forwards Ken Siebel, 6-4 and Tom Gwyn, 6-6; center Jack Brens, 6-8; and guards Mike O'Melia, 5-11 and Don Hearden, 6-0.

WORCESTER, Mass.—Joe Shaw, 141, New York, stopped Alonzo Patterson, 137, Akron, Ohio, 2.

Ed Hammen Named On All-Opponent Team

Red Wings Snap Losing Streak, Tip Bruins, 5-3

DETROIT (AP) — The surest way to come out of a slump in the National Hockey League is to play the Boston Bruins.

Even then, the once-pace setting Detroit Red Wings had to struggle to make it in Thursday night's only NHL game. For 45 minutes the Wings looked like they were a distant last—winners of only two games in two months—not the Bruins.

But in the final 15 minutes the Red Wings poured four goals past goalie Bob Perrault and wiped out Boston's 3-1 lead. The 5-3 victory was the first in four games for Detroit, NHL leaders almost all season until last Sunday.

The Wings returned to second place, a point ahead of Toronto and a point behind Chicago, with their comeback rally. Parker MacDonald, Gordie Howe, Bruce MacGregor and Marcel Pronovost scored the late goals in the only game scheduled.

Knicks Defeat Royals; Zephyrs Whip St. Louis

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York's new-look knicks may not be going anywhere in the National Basketball Association chase, but they give indications of turning spoiler.

That was the role they took Thursday night, knocking off Cincinnati 99-96 and fouling a Royal bid to move past idle Syracuse into second place in the Eastern Division.

Knicks Defeat Royals; Zephyrs Whip St. Louis

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York's new-look knicks may not be going anywhere in the National Basketball Association chase, but they give indications of turning spoiler.

That was the role they took Thursday night, knocking off Cincinnati 99-96 and fouling a Royal bid to move past idle Syracuse into second place in the Eastern Division.

Chicago whipped St. Louis 106-93 in the only other game on schedule, the Zephyrs climbing out of the Western cellar and knocking second place St. Louis 112 games off Los Angeles leading pace.

"We've also signed two of our first round choices," the spokesman said. "It's too early to forecast a trend."

Pointers Meet UW-M; Ripon Plays Two MC Foes

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Most of Wisconsin's small college basketball teams will see conference activity this weekend which produces the second round of action in the Midwest Conference and the initial league contests of the State College Conference.

Ripon, tied with Carleton and Lawrence for the Midwest lead with 2 and 0 records, will play at Grinnell tonight and at Cornell Saturday. Beloit, loser of its Midwest opener, travels to Monmouth tonight and to Knox on through the weekend.

Whitewater will entertain Rockford College tonight in a non-league action and St. Norbert, winner of its two starts this season, will be at Chicago Teachers.

Stout, 2 and 3, is at Eau Claire, 0 and 3, and River Falls, 1 and 1, will be at Superior, 0 and 2. La Crosse will try to improve on its 1 and 2 record by going outside the conference for a game with Gustavus-Adolphus.

Other games Saturday have Lakeland entertains St. Mary's of Winona, Minn., Northland playing host to Bemidji, Carroll entertains North Central, while Milton greets George Williams and Northwestern of Wisconsin welcomes Trinity College.

Democrat Hits Cuban Policy Of President

Sen. Russell Says U. S. Should Not Have Lifted Blockade

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Senator Richard Russell of Georgia is an important and influential member of Congress. He is a Democrat and Chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, one of the most important posts in Washington. But when he made a public comment criticizing President Kennedy's policy in Cuba, it didn't get printed even in the late editions of some of the leading morning newspapers of the country. It was published in Washington, however, where it doubtless was read by the Administration.

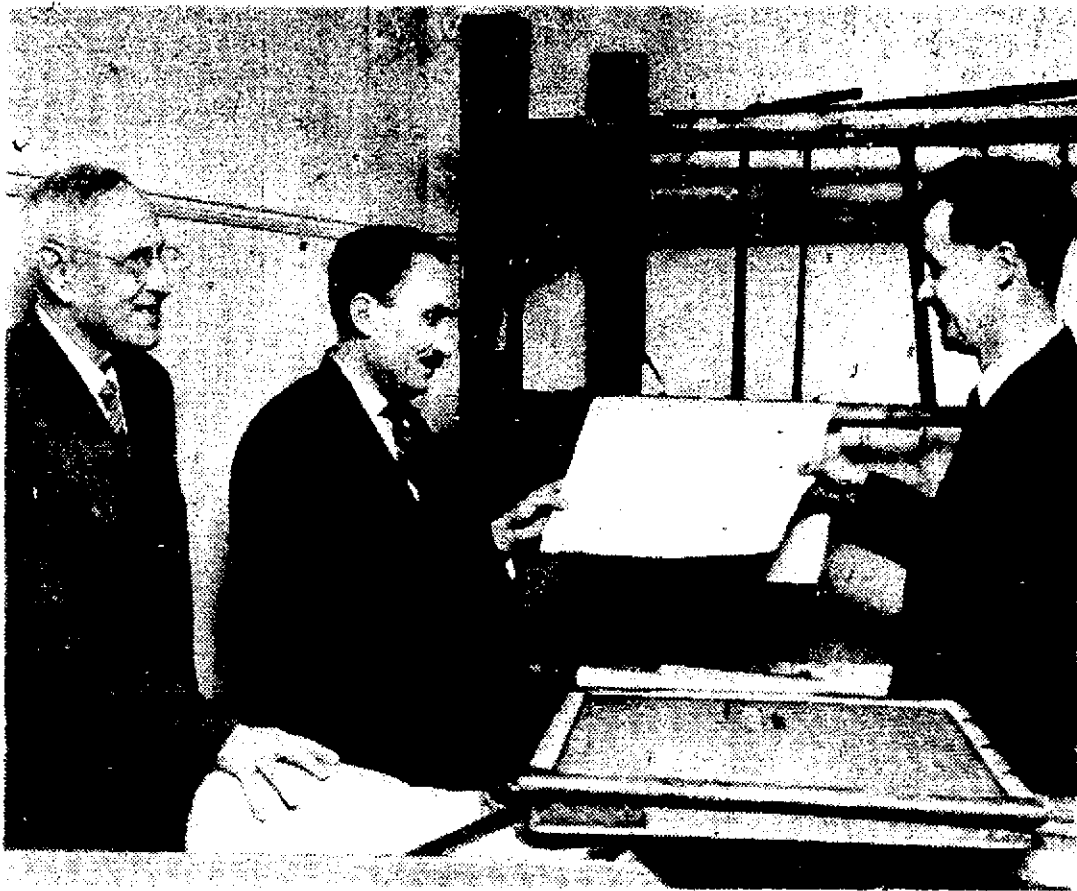

The Associated Press carried some of the quotations on its wires at around 11:00 p.m. Wednesday. So did the United Press International at about the same time. The excerpts were taken from an interview earlier that evening over station WSB-TV in Atlanta with Lloyd Russell — no relation to the Senator. The transcript, which has since become available, shows that Senator Russell said:

"We have temporized. We have even lifted the quarantine. Frankly, I thought that was a mistake. I didn't think we should lift the quarantine, or make any guarantees as to Cuba, until we had had the right of on-site inspection throughout Cuba."

This sums up also the opinion of many Americans — regardless of party. For it is felt that the Wise, of the Institute's wood chemistry group; Prof. Cristofor Simionescu from Romania, and Dr. Norman Thompson, of the Institute's engineering and technology section. United States gave away its trump card when it withdrew its "quarantine" or blockade and demobilized the troops which had been assembled in the southeastern part of this country.

Never Revealed
ade before on-site inspection was blunder in withdrawing the block-

Whether this step was taken as a "trade" or "concession" to the Soviet Union has never been revealed. U Thant, Secretary General of the United Nations, spoke the other day of the "compromise" on Cuba and of the "principle of give and take." But Senator Russell now accuses the administration of having made a blunder. He deplores the policy, no matter whether it was adopted to conciliate the Soviets or to assist Mikoyan somehow in dealing with Castro. Senator Russell added:

"We will have to eventually rid this hemisphere of Castro and all that he stands for. I would be in favor of doing it now if we could make a joint effort with the other Latin American states. But since Russia claims that they have moved the missiles, and since our government has accepted their word about it — and why on earth we should have accepted their word I don't know."

The Chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee went on to declare that he hoped the United States would make no further "concessions" because, as it is, "we have not been able to hold the initial gain we made in Cuba when Khrushchev promised to remove the missiles." He continued:

"Here three months ago we were pledged to see that Castroism in this hemisphere was destroyed. We have now been enchured into the position of baby-sitting for Castro and guaranteeing the integrity of the Communist regime in Cuba, and we don't know for a positive fact that the missiles and the bombers have been removed. I assume that they have, but all we have seen is a box that they said contained the bomber, and a long metal container that they said contained the missile.

No Concessions
"I certainly hope that we will not make any further concessions until we at least have the right to send the United Nations team in there to see that there are no missiles hidden in the caves or other strategic places in Cuba, and we have the right to test to see whether there are any atomic nuclear warheads there. That is a test that can be carried on through instrumentation and is reasonably accurate."

These are strong comments by a member of the President's own party in the Senate. If a Republican had made them, they would have been characterized as just an anti-Administration or anti-Kennedy view. But Senator Russell is a man of independence and is respected in both parties. He has always taken a nonpartisan position where the military security of the United States is at stake.

There has been a kind of smoke-screen drawn to obscure the facts, due perhaps to policies of "manipulating" the news in and around the pentagon. Senator Russell says the world "has accepted the fact that we have won a great diplomatic victory here, whether we have or not." He added:

"The Russians are just following their old policy. The Communists start out on a course of action that they know is wrong, and when you call their hand they say, 'all right, we'll stop this if you'll give us something over here' that they know they have no right to whatever. And that is what they did to us in Cuba."

As matters stand now, the United States government has never followed up its protest against the Soviet Union for having put the missiles in Cuba in the first place. Why was this threat of aggression ignored in the U.N.? There is a studied effort in Administration circles to give the impression that "appeasement" has been discarded and that the United States has gotten tough with Khrushchev. The evidence, however, doesn't show it as yet. U.S. officials admit there are several thousand Russians in Cuba, along with some Mig-15 and Mig-21 fighter planes capable of carrying nuclear weapons.

The size-up that Senator Russell has made could lead to a full investigation at the January session of Congress.

Professor From Romania Visits Paper Institute

A Romanian scientist presented a seminar to research scientists and graduate students at The Institute of Paper Chemistry Wednesday.

He was Professor Cristofor Simionescu, head of the chair of cellulose, paper and artificial fibers on the faculty of chemistry at the Jassy Polytechnical Institute in Bucharest. He also is head of the section of macromolecular chemistry of the Institute of Chemical Research at the Jassy Branch of the Academy of the Romanian Peoples' Republic.

Institute scientists and graduate students conduct research in the area of cellulose, paper and fibers, and Simionescu's seminar topic was "Cellulose and Graft Cellulosic Derivatives."

The Institute lecture was one of several Simionescu will be giving on a 21 day tour of the United States with two other Romanian scientists. The tour is taking place under an exchange of notes between the United States and Romanian governments. The Romanians are bearing their own expenses.

Yesterday was the third date set for the seminar. The Institute received word prior to each of two previous scheduled appearances by Simionescu that the arrangements were not materializing.

106 Known Dead in London in 4 Days But Smog Subsiding

Visibility Rising at Airport, Early Service Resumption Seen

LONDON (AP) — The worst smog in a decade loosened its lethal four-day grip on London today, leaving 106 known dead and more than 1,000 in hospitals. Dense patches persisted in parts of the British capital, but in most places the sun finally seeped wanly through a thin blue haze in mid-morning.

"London is like an oasis, completely ringed by a slowly clearing fog belt," said a spokesman for the British Automobile Association.

Visibility rose to 150 yards.

Adenauer Will Quit Next Fall

New Coalition With Free Democrats Predicted at Bonn

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will retire from office next fall, the parliamentary floor leader of the Christian Democratic party announced today.

Heinrich von Brentano said the chancellor, who will be 87 in January, made the announcement at a meeting of party executives Thursday night.

Brentano also told a meeting of the party's members in parliament the party executives had rejected a coalition government with the opposition Socialists. A new coalition with the Conservative Free Democrats, who quit the government over the Spiegel affair several weeks ago, was practically assured.

Not Surprising

Adenauer's impending retirement did not particularly surprise West German politicians. He has been under pressure for some time from his own party to relinquish the government reins to a younger man. He has been chancellor for 13 years, since the West German Republic was inaugurated.

Last year, after his party lost its parliamentary majority and had to form a coalition with the Free Democrats, Adenauer said he would retire in sufficient time before the 1965 general election to give his successor a chance to get used to his office. However, Adenauer refused to set a date for his retirement.

Authoritative Christian Democratic sources say his successor probably will be the vice chancellor and economics minister, Ludwig Erhard, known as the father of West Germany's "miracle" postwar recovery.

Wiley to Live In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defeated Sen. Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., has indicated he will remain in Washington after his term expires next month.

The 78-year-old senator, a veteran of four terms, sent his last newsletter to constituents Thursday, describing it as "Christmas Greetings from 2122 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Washington, which will be our address from now on."

Wiley was beaten in Nov. 6 balloting by Democratic Gov. Gaylord Nelson.

Pravda Asks Action to Liquidate U. S. Bases

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Communist party paper Pravda called today for negotiations to liquidate American military bases around the Soviet Union.

The article, by the paper's authoritative diplomatic observer Yuri Zhukov, was the first important Soviet statement on U.S. overseas bases since President Kennedy rejected Soviet Premier Khrushchev's demand for a swap of Soviet rocket bases in Cuba for U.S. bases in Turkey.

Zhukov repeated standard Soviet charges—that the bases are provocations against the Soviet Union, that they have outlived their usefulness, and that they only serve to prop up unpopular regimes.

Kennedy on Tour of U. S. Air Bases

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—President Kennedy arrived at Offutt Air Force Base today to visit the Strategic Air Command underground command post and to be briefed on the U.S. nuclear war plan.

Kennedy was met by Gen. Thomas S. Power, SAC commander, and vice Adm. Roy L. Johnson, deputy director of the joint strategic target planning staff, of which Power also is chief.

Also on hand to greet the President were Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and defense dignitaries whose plane landed a few minutes before the President's, and Nebraska's Gov. Frank Morrison.

This was the first leg of a three-day trip that also will take the President to top-secret nuclear development and testing stations in New Mexico and Nevada.

Before returning to Washington Monday morning, the chief executive will spend a day and a half relaxing at crooner Bing Crosby's home at Palm Desert, Calif.

Joining Kennedy for the military part of the tour were a dozen dignitaries including Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, chairman Glenn T. Seaborg of the Atomic Energy Commission, Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert and military chiefs of the armed services.

U. S. Expects Soviet Units to Quit Cuba

Forces Believed to Total From 9,000 to 15,000 Men

BY LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. authorities expect the Soviet Union to withdraw thousands of troops from Cuba now that red bombers and missiles have been pulled from the island.

American intelligence sources estimate there are 9,000 to 15,000 Soviet troops in Cuba. Many were assigned to install and man the offensive weapons.

The Pentagon said Thursday Navy patrol planes had counted 42 bombers aboard Soviet ships outbound from Cuba. This is the number of bombers the Soviets told U.S. officials they had in Cuba—somewhat more than American experts had estimated.

This apparently completes the removal of Soviet offensive weapons from Cuba.

Nearly a month ago, the U.S. Navy counted 42 Soviet missiles on their way out. U.S. authorities said they know of none remaining in Cuba.

They said U.S. negotiators will press in discussions with Soviet representatives in New York for removal of the Soviet troops. The Soviet Union, the authorities said, is expected to pull the men out.

It was understood Premier Khrushchev informed President Kennedy last month that Soviet ground troops associated with the weapons would be withdrawn.

At his last news conference, Nov. 20, Kennedy said "a number of Soviet ground combat units" were in Cuba. "We are informed," he added, "that these and other Soviet units were associated with the protection of offensive weapons systems and will also be withdrawn in due course."

Some Troops Leave

Some of the Soviet troops were said to have been used to protect the missile site positions and to man the estimated two dozen anti-aircraft missile installations that U.S. experts believe the Soviets set up to defend their offensive weapons complex.

The anti-aircraft installations feature 20 to 25-mile range six:

Leading Clerics Protest Soviet Religion Curbs

BY MILT FREUDENHEIM

Chicago Daily News Service

NEW YORK — Charges that the Soviet Union has revived "memories of the anti-Semitic Stalin regime" have been cabled to Premier Nikita Khrushchev by 46 leading Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergymen, editors and educators.

The religious leaders lambasted "blanket restraints" against all religions in the Soviet Union, and then stressed the "extraordinary disabilities inflicted on Judaism and its followers."

Appealing to Khrushchev to conform to Soviet claims of religious freedom and to the U.N. declaration of human rights, the group warned that without religious freedom, the Soviet Union "forfeits the confidence of all peoples."

"Deeds" Demanded

"By deeds alone can your government confirm that the Soviet Union in truth upholds the rights of minorities and the equal dignity of man," they said.

Sponsored by the American leaders as individuals together with the American Jewish committee, a 56-year-old human relations agency, the cable was signed by archbishops, bishops, rabbis, divinity school deans and leading laymen.

They listed repressive measures against Soviet Jews including: Abuse of leaders; ban on conversion.

Republicans Plan to Campaign in South For Electoral Votes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican National Chairman William E. Miller pledged today an all-out GOP campaign in 1964 for Southern electoral votes and congressional seats.

Miller made clear in a report prepared for the opening session of the two-day Republican National Committee meeting that he has no intention of soft-pedaling party efforts in Dixie.

Situation Held 'Desperate' But State Official Holds Out Hope for Trapped Men

smoldering down there, it could cause another explosion." Rescue workers plodded to within some 4,000 feet today of 37 men trapped deep underground by a tremendous coal mine explosion. U.S. Steel Corp., which operates the Robena No. 3 mine, said a recheck of its records showed a 37th man missing. A total of 36 men were believed trapped at first.

The men have not been heard from since the explosion at 1:15 p.m. Thursday.

Rescue crews had gone slightly more than halfway into the two-mile tunnel from the mine shaft after more than 22 hours of digging.

Lewis Evans, Pennsylvania secretary of mines, described the situation as "desperate," but held out hope the miners may be alive. "We hope the men built barricades to stop the flow of gas," he said.

Forty-four others working in another section of the pit walked out unhurt. Some returned to search for their colleagues who are 650 feet underground.

Slowed by deadly gas and tons of rubble that left shorings hanging like burnt matches, the rescue crews proceeded cautiously in the tunnel—its concrete walls buckled by the blast.

"Those men are looking into the barrel of a shotgun," said one union official. "With those fires

Range Safety Under Study

Runaway Section of Polaris Missile Points to Problem

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)

—Range safety procedures will be surveyed carefully as the result of a wrong-way runaway section of a Polaris missile which escaped destruction and landed in the Atlantic Ocean 150 miles east of Savannah, Ga.

"If that missile piece had headed inland instead of toward the wide open ocean," a source said, "the only thing we could have done would be to pray that it did not hit a populated area."

The Polaris began twisting wildly in the sky shortly after the second stage ignited during a test flight Thursday, and the range safety officer beamed a radio signal to destroy the missile.

However, a large section, still under power, escaped detonation and suddenly shifted from an intended southeast heading to a northeast direction.

No Nuclear Device

After word of the wayward rocket leaked out, the Air Force admitted it landed in the sea 300 to 350 miles northeast of Cape Canaveral. There was no nuclear device aboard. The range safety officer reported, without elaboration, that the command destruct system had worked properly.

Sources said that apparently the missile was not properly wired for complete detonation.

The solid-fuel Polaris has caused range safety problems in the past. On an early test flight in 1958, the safety officer destroyed a Polaris when it went off course, but a large part of the second stage survived and raced inland. It barely missed a trailer camp in nearby Cocoa Beach before dropping into a river.

That flight resulted in placement of several dynamite destruct packages throughout solid propellant missiles, instead of only in key areas, so that the vehicles could be blown to bits if necessary.

Heavy Snow, High Drifts

Northeastern Ohio Crippled by Worst Snowstorm in Dozen Years

CLEVELAND (AP) — The wide area and caused hundreds of accidents.

The storm, moving into northern Ohio late Wednesday afternoon from the south, was powered thus morning by winds of 30 to 35 miles an hour, with gusts up to 50 miles an hour. Temperature hovered near the freezing point.

The depth was not as great as in other snowstorms but the heavy snow delayed trains and buses, grounded planes, shut down at least 50 factories and closed virtually all schools in a snow drifts as high as five feet.

Driving — where possible — was a nightmare. Hundreds of cars and trucks stalled, blocking practically all secondary roads.

Bottlenecks at some Ohio turnpike exits backed up traffic for six miles. Most drivers on the 241-mile toll road were not going faster than 20 miles an hour. One lane was open in each direction.

There were four storm-connected deaths in the Cleveland area.

Some 30,000 customers of the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company were without power, many since last night. Snow laden lines snapped and others were knocked down by high winds.

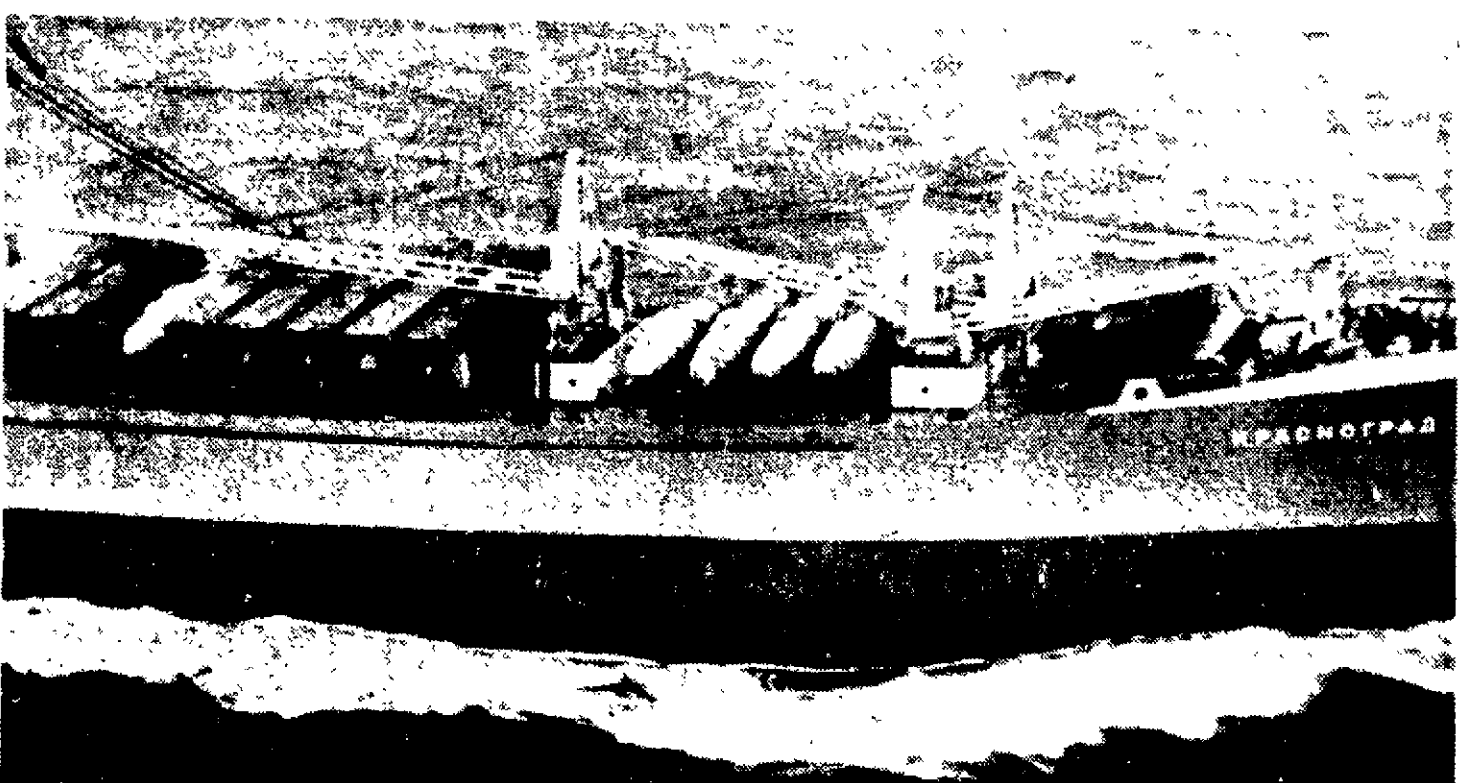

A CEI spokesman described the situation in the company's 117-square mile area as "a pretty bad mess." One hundred and thirty-four extra men were called in to assist 100 men who worked through the night. Additional crews were summoned from utility companies in Columbus, Toledo, Dayton and Canton.

Airport Closed

The snowfall at 9 a. m. measured 18 inches at Novelty in Geauga County, with two to three-foot drifts. Canton-Akron had 10-11 inches and Ashland had 8 to 10 inches. Lorain, 9, and Youngstown 7.

Cleveland Hopkins Airport closed late last night and a spokesman said this morning, "It'll be at least 10 hours before we can begin to open up our runways."

Traffic at the airport halted as drifting snow blocked runways and made roads leading to the field impassable.

per cent in the first two years of life in 1730 to only 2.9 per cent in 1954 in England. That shows, he said, what could be done through control of infectious diseases and better nutrition. While the field of birth defects is largely unexplored at this time, he said, the achievements in infant mortality reduction show what can be done when people are willing to spend the time and effort to learn about causes, prevention and cure of diseases.

Dr. Smith noted that from 5 to 7 1/2 per cent of the babies born today have some type of defect. Those defects come, he said, from imperfect embryonic development and may manifest themselves as biochemical or functional defects as well as physical imperfections.

There are many potential causes, he said, most of which, at this time, cannot be determined.

Dr. Smith explained some of the basic genetic facts in development of the embryo and noted it was almost impossible for two persons to be the same.

Some types of causes of birth defects are preventable, he explained. They include German measles, very extensive use of X-ray (not simple diagnostic use) and use of some types of chemicals.

Most abnormalities probably have a genetic basis, he said. That means that many of them are strictly the result of chance — and science at this time does not know the cause or how to prevent such things from occurring.

"We are standing at the threshold of knowledge on congenital defects," he said. "Our main purpose in gaining an understanding of the causes is to be able to convey that information to the parents."

Many March of Dimes workers from the county were introduced, along with guests from the Winnebago County National Foundation chapter.

An honorable mention citation for publicity and promotion was presented to Allen Bubolz, last year's county chairman, by Baldwin.

Proxmire Plans Two-Day Visit To Fox Cities

Democratic Sen. William Proxmire will spend two days in the Fox Cities next week during his three week swing through the state.

Proxmire is scheduled to be in Kaukauna and Appleton on Wednesday, and Neenah, Menasha and Oshkosh Thursday.

William Cherkasky, Proxmire's representative in Appleton, said he does not know what Proxmire's program will be during the two day Fox Cities visit, but "I expect he will be wherever the most people are."

"A visit by Sen. Proxmire," Cherkasky said, "usually consists of visiting mills, plant gates, the downtown area, department stores and supermarkets. It probably will be similar this time."

In addition to the visit to the Fox Cities, Proxmire will be in Green Bay and De Pere on Monday, Manitowish and Two Rivers on Tuesday, Fond du Lac on Friday, and Sheboygan on Saturday to complete the second week of his three week state visit.

Don Heinritz Seeks Job On Patrol

Outagamie County Undersheriff Donald Heinritz, who will be out of work in January when Sheriff Calvin Spice and Undersheriff Norbert Marx take over, went looking for a job Thursday.

He applied to the county's traffic and radio department for a job with the traffic department as a county police officer. Heinritz served with the traffic police for six years after he joined the force in 1949.

Also making application was Robert Keating, 24, a radio operator with the department since July. Keating replaced John Wetengel in the radio department when Wetengel retired.

Supv. Pat Heenan, chairman of the traffic and radio committee, interviewed the two applicants and indicated that three others are in the running for the job. The three had applied in July when a vacancy was created with the resignation of Patrolman John Carpenter.

Seymour Okays Tax Rate to Finance Budget

$30 Per $1,000 of Assessed Valuation Approved at Hearing

SEYMOUR — The 1963 tax rate has been set at $30 per $1,000 of assessed value as proposed in the budget approved Monday night. A change in the sales tax credit from the state from $3.25 per $1,000 to $2.455 was indicated.

Property owners in Seymour will pay a rate of $27.545 per $1,000 value. No one appeared at the budget hearing.

Other minor changes caused an increase from $9,000 to $10,000 the allotment for capital outlay on the new fire truck body. Unclassified miscellaneous was reduced from $1,623 to $1,351. The contingency fund was increased from $2,000 to $5,000.

Total city tax levy was increased from $136,580 to $140,308. The total city, county, state and school tax levy will total $326,890. Revenue and cash balance for 1963 will reduce that amount to $253,714, which represents the total tax roll.

A breakdown of the tax rates shows how much of the tax dollar each unit will receive: County, 23 cents, state, $3.84, local school, $8.34, union high school, $9.60, vocational school 6 cents; and city, $7.93.

Reynolds Tours Grand Army Home, And Stevens Point State College

Commandant Requests Improved Nursing Care, Social Worker

WAUPACA — Governor-Elect John Reynolds, surrounded by newsmen and a few selected aides, led a group of about 11 state senators and assemblymen on tours of the Grand Army Home, King, and Stevens Point State College Thursday.

Reynolds believes his eye-witness, data-collecting tour of state institutions will help him make the "right" budget requests, but is the first to admit "the decision-making process will now be more difficult."

The first-hand knowledge gathered on his visits to the institutions, plus the findings of the budget analysts, mingled with human sympathy and confronted by a tax-minded legislature, indicate there may be many drafts before the budget is ready for state approval.

Wisconsin's governor-elect said the tours are "the fulfillment of a four-year dream."

He said as attorney general he received "uncensored" letters from people in the penal institutions and these letters helped prompt the tours.

Reynolds said the tours are educational as well to the newsmen, who are "letting the people know about the state."

Good Press Coverage "We have had very good press coverage, and in some cases photographers were allowed in institutions in which they were never allowed before," he added.

Reynolds was welcomed Thursday like a long-lost friend by administrators at the Grand Army Home and by administration and faculty members at Stevens Point State College.

He received "this we are proud of and this we are not" tours. He toured the new Burns - Clemens dormitory-infirmaries at King and some of the antiquated cottages and dormitories. He toured the new physical education building, the College Union and the new Pray-Sims resident hall, saw the construction progress on the new science building and toured the crowded facilities at Main Hall at Stevens Point State College.

Affects Next 2 Years John S. Drayna, commandant at the Grand Army Home, worried by the tardiness of the Reynolds bus in view of a tightly planned and mortar type thing." He said the physical care of members is fair, but the home is asking increases in clothing and comfort allowances to come up to the standards of the public welfare department.

Nursing Care "Inadequate" "We feel the nursing care is inadequate," Drayna explained, mentioning there are no registered nurses at the Burns-Clemens infirmary. He said little or nothing is being done to meet the social and cultural needs of members. He asked for the addition of a social worker.

Non-Union Musician Use in Hortonville Hit

Village President Ray Werner Says Who Plays in Village Halls Isn't Trustee Decision

HORTONVILLE — It's not up to the village to decide if union or non-union musicians are used in the Hortonville Community Hall, village trustees were told Thursday night.

"We just rent the hall," said village president Ray Werner. The question had arisen when Local 300 of the American Federation of Musicians had objected to use of a non-union disc jockey at a teen-age dance in the community. "This falls under the Landrum-Griffin Labor Act," Werner told trustees.

Park Improvements The trustees also heard a report that Outagamie County had not yet carried out any improvements on the wayside park at Black Otter Lake. The county had appropriated $500 for improvements.

Police Chief Douglas Jones in his November report noted that 15 juveniles had been referred to the county welfare department. He reported he had worked 252 hours and driven 1,033 miles. He checked four accidents, answered 16 radio calls and 15 telephone calls.

There were 21 arrests made with $261 collected in fines. One battery case was handled, the electric meter was set up three times and three business doors were found unlocked. Jones reported that there were no buildings in Hortonville which qualified as being stocked for civil defense purposes.

Sewage Plant It was reported that the state will not test the village sewage disposal plant until next spring. The state runs a 24-hour check on the plant every five years.

Trustees authorized payment of village and utility bills, issued three building permits and agreed to assume responsibility for the village treasurer in the amount of collection for county taxes.

The next meeting of the board is Dec. 20.

New London Auxiliary Plans Christmas Party

NEW LONDON — The New London Community Hospital Auxiliary will hold its Christmas party at 8 p.m. Monday in the hospital lobby. Members will exchange gifts.

$3.6 Million Asked to Hike Teacher Salaries

STEVENS POINT — Gov. Elect John Reynolds heard a request for $3.6 million dollars to improve state college teacher salaries when he visited the state college near here Thursday.

Eugene McPhee, secretary of the state board of college regents, said the amount would help make the average salary of the state college system teachers equal to teacher salaries in five nearby states.

Reynolds was told Wisconsin ranked last in average pay to its teachers compared with Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Minnesota and Michigan.

"I would say quality of state colleges depends almost entirely on the new teacher salary program," McPhee said.

$2,000 for Professors McPhee asked for a raise of about $2,000 in the next two years for full professors and increases of $1,800 for associate professors, $1,500 for assistant professors and $1,000 for instructors.

State colleges also have asked for new teachers to bring the ratio of instructors to students close to 18 to 1.

Sen. William Proxmire joined the group in a surprise visit. At one point in the discussion McPhee said he liked federal money and would "take all I can get."

In a discussion on the possibility of using television for instruction, Dr. Walker Wyman, president of Whitewater State College, said if a teacher can be replaced by a machine, he'd favor it.

Fund Raising Projects Started In Seymour to Obtain Cash; Described as 'Expensive Facility'

4H — Fund Raising — 1st 8 lines 2 col. SEYMOUR — Obstacles in the way of constructing and operating an indoor swimming pool were explained to a citizens group studying the possibilities by Ernest Goranson, a recreation specialist for the state department of public welfare.

Fund raising projects for an indoor pool or alternate community project have begun here. A charity ball is slated for Monday, Dec. 17, sponsored by the Seymour Woman's club, where current interest is centered.

At a recent meeting, Goranson, assisted by Carl Bruno, district manager of the welfare department from Green Bay, indicated that a pool, while possible to construct, was one of the most expensive recreation facilities a community can offer its citizens.

Trip to Green Bay The pool idea has long been a topic for discussion in Seymour. Youngsters currently travel to Green Bay for lessons. During the summer area stone quarries and pools in neighboring cities have attracted the youngsters.

A recent auction-fund show at a local super market netted the fund $85. The manager is currently offering one per cent of the proceeds from ticket sales to ships voluntarily inserted in a box at the store. Other organizations are formulating plans for fund raising activities.

Goranson reviewed pool construction styles. He quoted a 1960 survey by the Wisconsin League of Municipalities which found that

Fire Hits Downtown Menominee

Tenement Buildings Burn This Morning In Michigan City

Post-Crescent News Service MENOMINEE, Mich. — A raging fire which destroyed half a block of old store buildings and apartments in downtown Menominee, this morning was brought under control shortly before noon Thursday.

None of the six persons who occupied the apartment in the seven buildings on the block were injured although one deaf and crippled man was taken from his room moments before the fire got out of control.

The entire 400 block on First Street in Menominee was threatened by the blaze at the south end of the business district. The area was once the prosperous part of the business district with most of the building nearly a century old.

Fire in the brick two-story building was noticed shortly after 6 a.m. by Alvin Larsen who lives just above the Salvation Army Store. He called his neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sault.

The fire already was blazing in the second story of the building when third apartment tenants, Russell Clairmont and Francis Petonquet, who is deaf and crippled, were roused from sleep and taken from the building.

Man Escapes Robert Porton, who lived above the adjacent store was called and managed to escape. The other apartment was rented by Anthony Jatkowski, in California.

Nothing from the apartments or the Salvation Army headquarters which contained stacks of clothing which was to be donated to the needy was saved.

High winds early this morning hampered operations of Menominee firemen for nearly three hours. According to authorities, the fire apparently started on the second floor of the building above the Salvation Army store.

Flames broke through the roof and raced to adjoining buildings before firemen arrived. By 10 a.m., firemen had the blaze partially controlled, and by noon, other buildings no longer were in danger.

State Agents Raid VFW Hall In Kaukauna

Confiscate Bingo Equipment, Four Cases of Beer

KAUKAUNA—State tax and beverage department agents who mingled with a crowd of more than 200 persons about 9:30 p.m. Thursday night, confiscated several pieces of bingo equipment and four cases of beer from the Electric City Veterans of Foreign Wars hall 319 in Kaukauna.

Outagamie County Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer today, after conferring with agents issued a warrant against the post's commandeer, Roland J. Geurts, 1412 Main Ave., Kaukauna, charging the post with conducting a lottery "where both the consideration and prize are money," and of selling beer without a proper license.

Geurts will appear in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2 today to answer the charges.

Played the Game

Outagamie County Sheriff Lt. Jack Frenz, who accompanied the three agents on the raid said two of the agents played the game before confiscating the equipment.

Taken in the raid were a bingo stand and selector and two large cardboard boxes of bingo cards, and cases of beer and empty beer bottles.

According to Schaefer, the agents went into the club and observed the operation and decided that a lottery was being conducted. He said the prizes, according to the agents, were money.

Frenz said the crowd was orderly and did not give the agents any trouble when asked to leave. Frenz said the agents were conducting the investigation on a complaint they had received.

First Feelers Out for Municipal Union Shop

Move Thought to be Next Objective in Public Employee Labor Legislation

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The municipal employee labor union movement has made its first tentative gesture toward the next big objective in public employee labor legislation — a union shop law for the workers in governmental services of the state.

The suggestion came from John A. Lawton, counsel and lobbyist for the Wisconsin Council of County and Municipal Employee Unions, who said his organization has not yet definitely decided to sponsor such an act in the 1963 legislature, but who asked a legislative committee to study the possibility, nevertheless.

Joint Committee
His comment was made to a joint legislative committee set up to study the operations of the collective bargaining rights law which was the big Lawton achievement in the 1961 legislature. Chairman of the study group is Sen. Jerris Leonard of suburban Milwaukee, who will have a considerable voice in the deliberations of the new Republican-controlled legislature as chairman of the GOP policy committee of the state senate.

A "union shop" system requires employees after they are hired, to join a labor organization. In private employment in Wisconsin, under state law, such a union shop contract provision can be imposed through a vote of two thirds of the employees in an employment unit.

Lawton indicated that his clients

First Major Snowstorm Hits Nation

14 Deaths Blamed On Weather Change; Ohio Airway Closed

The season's first major snowstorm left a blanket more than a foot deep across broad areas from the Great Lakes into New York and southward into Tennessee today.

Cold weather added to the wintry picture. Temperatures turned sharply as gusty winds fanned the snow and cold air in a wide sweep across the Ohio Valley to the Southern Appalachians and Mid-Atlantic Coast. Freezing weather chilled northern Florida.

The late autumn storm was blamed for at least 14 deaths, most of them in traffic accidents, on snow-covered highways. Five persons died while shoveling snow, three in Michigan and two in the Cleveland area.

The storm forced the closing of schools in Cleveland and several other northeastern Ohio counties. Cleveland's Hopkins airport was closed Friday night.

Heavy Snow Belt
The heavy snow belt extended over Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York state, West Virginia and Maryland, with smaller amounts in Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee. Hazardous driving conditions were reported in many parts of the snow belt.

The storm dumped 14 inches of snow in Olean, in western New York, where falls ranged from about a foot to five inches.

In Ohio, the heaviest fall also was 14 inches, in Geauga County. Amounts ranged from 5 to 12 inches in Youngstown. About 1,600 homes in Cleveland were without power for a time as snow toppled feeder lines.

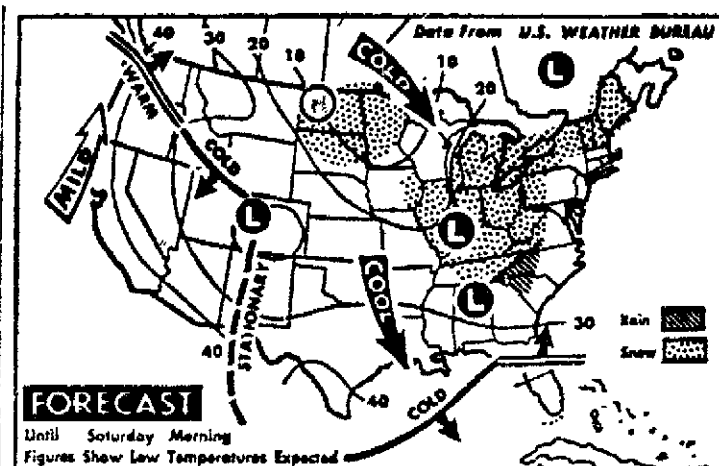

Highway crews worked through the night to clear snow-clogged roads.

In Tennessee, snow measured 10 inches at Newfound Gap in the Smokies and was 4 to 5 inches deep in other mountain areas. Elkins, W. Va., reported 13 inches on the ground. Falls ranged up to eight inches in Michigan and Indiana.

pools were 38 per cent self sustaining. The balance would be paid through taxes. Goranson said the figure, based on 60 pools surveyed, did not include indebtedness from the original investment.

Upkeep Problem

Some smaller communities find upkeep costs on a pool problematical once it is constructed. Pools have a tendency to attract a limited amount of industry and population, he observed.

Based on 1961 full valuation figures from the state department of taxation, Seymour had a full value of slightly more than 27 mills, and over $9 million assessed valuation. Taxes at $30 per $1,000 value were average with the state.

The city lacks a large industrial base as does the surrounding area, he said. Schools get 17 of the 27 mills, slightly higher than the average. The remaining 10 mills are consumed by the city. Goranson suggested a larger base was needed for raising funds and operating a pool.

Community Council

He suggested formation of a legal non-profit incorporated committee to take charge of the funds, and a community council to organize and promote the plan. An alternative purpose for the funds, hiring an architect and a board of health approval were also suggested.

Goranson proposed the citizens test community interest in the project and ask the city council if the city would operate a pool if constructed. A wider tax base, possibly through the school district, could support such a venture, he said.

Other community needs should also be considered, Goranson said. Mayor Ben Truymann said there had been no discussions at the council sessions since he was affiliated with it, but invited anyone to attend council sessions on the second and fourth Mondays.

Van Handel was charged with the complaint Nov. 12 by Mrs. Ruth Hartjes, 837 W. Grove St., his sister. The alleged offense took place Oct. 30. Van Handel pleaded innocent when he appeared in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2 Nov. 12. He has posted a $250 bond.

Drayna said more money was needed to enlarge the nursing staff, for a fire truck and ambulance, and for merit raises for many of the 240 employees.

He said a recreational therapist will be added before the first of the year. After explaining the operations at the home, Drayna summarized, "We are proud of the home in spite of our shortcomings. We feel keenly that our obligation is to enable the members to live a satisfying life and feel they are contributing to their community."

Jovial Hand-Shaker

On the tour itself, Reynolds was a jovial hand-shaker, frequently falling behind and in some cases almost losing the party as he stepped into rooms to visit with the residents.

The visitors were divided into three groups for the tour of the home. Assemblyman Richard E. Peterson, Waupaca Republican, joined the Reynolds tour and posed for a picture shaking hands with the Democratic governor-elect.

At the tour's conclusion and after the dinner served in Bryant Hall, a business meeting concluded the visit to the home. Reynolds questioned both Moses and Drayna.

His questions concerned per capita costs, the need for the home, the number of potential residents and future expansion plans.

Planning for 1,000

He learned the home is federally reimbursed for caring for the infirm, a service not offered by federal institutions. Plans are made to have facilities for up to 1,000 residents.

part time men and from less overtime.

Lockmasters said they had received requests from boaters who go to a supper club and for picnics at the Wrightstown park at night, and want to make return trips through the Little Kaukauna lock after 7 p. m. They said plans often depended on the weather, so that boaters did not make prior arrangements for lockage.

Ross Plaine, supervisor and general engineer with the Corps of Engineers, Appleton, suggested that if the boaters could notify the lockmaster by 7 p. m. as they went through the lock, return service might be provided on the hour at 9, 10 and 11 p. m.

Study Return Service

Col. Smedile said he would study ways to provide this return service on short notice.

The colonel called it "disappointing" that more persons were not at the hearing from the northern end of the river. About two dozen persons attended the hearing. One noted, "our problems at this end are entirely different. From our point of view the regulations have worked out quite well."

Col. Smedile said he did not believe any great change would be made in the regulations to be recommended for formal approval. If some minor changes seem necessary after more experience, they could be worked out, he said. One boater asked if any provisions were being made to modernize the locks. Col. Smedile said there were no plans to do this, because it would be very expensive. Providing automatic opening of the locks would mean extensive changes in the equipment, and the high standards of safety set by the Corps of Engineers for electrical equipment would make changes very costly, he explained.

The boater suggested the possibility of modernizing the locks over a period of years, working on one at a time.

Lawrence Beaudin, chief of operations of the Chicago District, Chicago, assisted Col. Smedile in conducting the hearing.

Friday Night's Game: Pennings at St. Mary.
Saturday Night's Game: Pennings at St. Mary.
Sunday Night's Game: Xavier at St. John.

Post-Crescent Staff Writer
Coach Gene "Torchy" Clark is using a "Morse Code" lineup these days to signal Fox Valley Catholic Conference teams that his Xavier Hawks should not be taken lightly.

Actually, there's little chance anyone is going to take the Hawks lightly in view of the fact they are the circuit's defending champions. This includes the Hawks' Sunday night opponents, Little Chute St. John. The game is set for 8 p.m. Sunday in Little Chute.

DePere Pennings and Menasha St. Mary will open a weekend slate of games when they clash at the Menasha High School gymnasium tonight. Green Bay Premontre invades St. Mary Springs at Fond du Lac and Marinette Catholic journeys to Oshkosh to engage Lourdes in Saturday night affairs.

The Xavier "Morse Code" lineup consists of four "dots" and a "dash." A quartet of 5-10 cagers play the role of the four dots while the dash is portrayed by 6-2 center John Heinritz. The smaller boys are "Kip" Whittinger, Dick Wiesner, Dick Zanzig and "Rocky" Bleier.

One League Game
Two of the four dots, Whittinger and Wiesner, rank third and fourth in the FVCC scoring race despite the fact that they have played only one game. The Hawks defeated Marinette in their only league test.

St. John dropped a 63-49 decision to Pennings its only league start thus far. The Dutchmen feature a promising sophomore in Williams, 6-foot-7 and 235 pounds, was the Lions second choice in Monday's NFL draft. Gamble, 6-4 and 240 pounds, was drafted in the seventh round.

Pat Richter Will Receive 'Lineman of the Year' Award

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wisconsin football end Pat Richter, who has been hopping around the East catching awards this week, will be here tonight to make another reception.

Richter, named to the Associated Press All-America team Thursday, will be honored at the silver anniversary dinner of the Piskin Club as the "national intercollegiate lineman of the year."

Other honors this week included selection on the all-American team of Look Magazine. He will skip that organization's awards dinner tonight to be in Washington. He was the first draft choice of the Washington Redskins of the National Football League.

Honored tonight with Richter, who will play with the Badgers in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day, will be Oregon halfback Mel Renfro, selected by the Piskin Club as back of the year.

While Richter was skipping around the country, his mother, Mrs. Mary Richter, said at the family home in Madison, Wis., Pat played part of the season with a chipped bone in his right hand. The injury was between the knuckles at the base of his two middle fingers.

He also was restricted portions of the season by hip and rib injuries. He suffered the finger injury, now healed, in the Iowa game.

FVL to Appear In Watertown Saturday

Play Northwestern In Bid for Third Victory

Fox Valley Lutheran will try to rise above the .500 mark Saturday night when it faces the Northwestern Preps in Watertown.

The Foxes lost a 55-49 decision to Stockbridge earlier this week and now own an even 2-2 record. Coach Gerry Kaness hopes to start his usual lineup of Barry Wierschke, John Koschmann, Don Arps, Mark Johnson and Verlyn Dobberstein.

Dobberstein, however, is a doubtful starter because of a knee condition. Wayne Koenig or Bob Krueger are the possible replacements.

Wins Only Start

Northwestern has played only Country Day, 49-47, last Saturday. They are scheduled to meet Milwaukee University School tonight.

The Hornets have good height in Keith Schroeder and Quentin Meyer. Schroeder is a starter at forward and stands 6-3. Meyer, the starting center is 6-2.

The remainder of the lineup consists of forward Dave Boeder (6-1) and guards Roger Kohleske (5-10) and John Guse (6-0). All of the opening lineup consists of seniors except for Boeder and Guse, who are juniors.

Midwest Loop President Dies

'Dutch' Hoffman Suffers Heart Attack at Home

BELLEVEILLE, Ill. (AP)—C. C. (Dutch) Hoffman, president of the Midwest Baseball League, died early Thursday after suffering a heart attack.

Hoffman, 58, who guided the Class D Midwest through three different phases since 1947, collapsed in his home Wednesday night and died in a hospital.

Hoffman, who played 107 games as an outfielder-infielder for the Chicago White Sox in 1929, organized the Midwest loop's predecessor, the Illinois State League, in 1947.

The Illinois League turned into the Mississippi-Ohio Valley League in 1949 and in 1956 became the Midwest League. Hoffman was president throughout the progressions.

'Honored, Surprised, Uncommitted'

Defensive Play Appeals To Draftee Robinson

NEW YORK (AP)—While the Green Bay Packers worked out on the West Coast, one of their possible bright new faces of 1963 said he was surprised to be drafted by the defending National Football League champions.

Dave Robinson of Penn State, the top packer choice in Monday's draft of college players, said Thursday he was "honored, surprised but uncommitted."

Robinson, who played guard, tackle and end with equal ability, said he won't start thinking about pro football until after the Gator Bowl game which matches Penn State against Florida.

"I certainly have to say I'm the most surprised guy in the world that the champs thought that much of me," Robinson said, "but that's something in the future."

Passing Consideration

While he may not have had any brain busting sessions about pro football, he's given it at least passing consideration, Robinson indicated.

"I know I'll have to concentrate on one position and do my best

Texas Western Quint Meets MU and UW This Weekend

Warriors Will Test Invaders' Rugged Defense Tonight

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Marquette basketball Warriors, impressive in winning their first start of the season, will test their high-powered offense against defensively tough Texas Western tonight in the Arena.

The Texans, 18 and 6 last season, and winner of both games in the new season, come to Milwaukee with big hopes. After their date with the Warriors they will move over to Madison for a game with Wisconsin on Saturday afternoon.

"They keep it and keep it and keep it," Warrior Coach Ed Hickey said as he made plans for tonight's game. "They wait for a good shot, and if you're not careful all of a sudden they get it."

Only 56 Points
In 24 games last year, Texas Western opponents averaged 56 points a game and opposition has averaged only 43.5 in the two games this season. The early victims were Sul Ross and Wayland.

All five Texas Western starters are back from last season's campaign and they have a new man, Jim Barnes, 6-foot-8, whose appearance doesn't mean any loss of strength. He scored 44 points in two games.

Nolan Richardson and Willie Brown are all-Border conference guards and the other two returnees are Bob Lesley and Bobby Hill. Another regular last season, Danny Vaughn, is handicapped with a bad knee.

Bob Hornak and Lee Borewski, Dave Erickson and Ron Glaser and Dick Nixon will form the starting five. Nixon had the best game of his Marquette career against Wake Forest, pouring in 26 points.

Eddie Dancisak Signs to Scout For Yankees
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Eddie Dancisak of Madison, Wis., a scout for the Philadelphia Phillies in Wisconsin, Iowa, North and South Dakota and part of Illinois, has been released, general manager John Quinn said Thursday.

Dancisak formerly scouted for the Milwaukee Braves.

Quinn said the move was in line with a consolidation of the scouting corps. He said Dancisak's territory would be taken over by other Philadelphia scouts.

The 50-year-old Dancisak said at Madison he had signed with the New York Yankees to scout for them in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Nebraska and the Dakotas.

Braves' Bill Adair To Pilot Toronto
MILWAUKEE (AP)—Bill Adair, bullpen coach of the Milwaukee Braves, was named today as manager of the Toronto baseball club in the International League, with which the Braves have a working agreement.

Adair has been manager of various clubs in the Milwaukee and Detroit Tigers' farm systems. Ken Silvestri, a coach at Louisville last season, will replace Adair on the Braves staff.

Ed Hammen Named On All-Opponent Team
St. Norbert College guard Ed Hammen, former St. John Little Chute athlete, was one of two Green Knight players named to the all-opponent team by Augustana College gridgers.

Also named was Larry Schoenberger of Oshkosh, fullback.

'Badgers Play First Home Game Saturday

MADISON (AP)—The University of Wisconsin basketball team, showing a victory and a defeat in the young 1962-63 season, opens its 15-game home schedule against Texas Western Saturday afternoon.

The second home encounter is set for Monday against Indiana State.

In winning the opener against Air Force Academy, 72-64, and losing to Arizona, 51-46, Wisconsin got off to a faltering start on what is expected to be another good season.

The Badgers made an impressive second place finish in the Big Ten conference last season, highlighting it with a rousing rout of the champion, Ohio State.

Badger Coach John Erickson found no reason to be downhearted after Arizona pulled the unexpected.

"We were a little off," he declared and then singled out the major reasons for losing—only 10 out of 25 free throws and too many rule violations.

Badgers 'Flat'
He conceded Arizona played "inspired" basketball and that his team was "flat." "We were out of tune all night against Arizona and never got our timing," he added.

Western will meet the Badgers with the experience of three games. The Miners beat Sul Ross State of Alpine, Texas, 63-46, and Wayland Baptist of Plainview, Texas, 81-41. They face their third foe, Marquette, in Milwaukee tonight.

Erickson is expected to start five returning lettermen. They are forwards Ken Siebel, 6-4 and Tom Gwyn, 6-6; center Jack Brens, 6-8; and guards Mike O'Melia, 5-11 and Don Hearden, 6-0.

WORCESTER, Mass.—Joe Shaw, 141, New York, stopped Alonzo Patterson, 137, Akron, Thru 2.

Henry Jordan Says It Is Easier for Defense to Score

Interceptions Have Set Up Number of Touchdowns for Bays

Post-Crescent News Service
PALO ALTO—The Packers defensive team had a meeting at 8 a.m. Thursday.

That's a bit early in the day but there was important work on the docket, as Henry Jordan explained: "We were figuring out some scoring plays to use on the 49ers." The defense planning to score? Henry was just kidding, of course but he added: "It's easier for the defense to score than the offense. Would you believe that? When we make an interception we're usually somewhere out by ourselves and don't have as much opposition as an offensive player."

Set Up Touchdowns

The Packer defense, has intercepted numerous passes—29, to be exact, including one by Jordan in the victory over the Rams last Sunday, and the thefts set up a number of touchdowns for the offense.

But the defensive unit has scored only two direct touchdowns—one by Willie Davis, with an assist from Bill Quinlan, in the Lion game Thanksgiving Day, and the other by Herb Adderly against the Bears in Green Bay. Both came on pass interceptions. Adderly scored another TD—on a 103-yard kickoff return.

The Packer defense which leads the league in fewest points allowed, 110, must take a back seat to the Lions in scoring. Detroit's defenders rolled up four touchdowns and four safeties. What no field goals?

Maybe Henry and his defensive teammates want to catch up with the Lions.

Near League Record

And speaking of scoring, jarrin! James Taylor is just one touchdown shy of tying the league record of 13 of the 20 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America who were on the selection committee.

Los Angeles Angels' catcher Bob Rodgers was named on four ballots while one vote apiece was given to Minnesota's second baseman Bernie Allen, Los Angeles.

Iola Adopts 1963 Budget

Tax Rate Up $3 To $52 To Finance 1963 Expenditures

IOLA — The Iola village board adopted a budget of $44,482 to meet village expenses for 1963. No one appeared at the hearing Tuesday to raise any questions, and the board set the levy at $52 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, up $3 over last year.

The budget adopted has $36,375 cut from the fire department's section. Fire Chief Ingal Olson said that he believed the requirements in that department would be less than planned because fewer fires in the last year had reduced expenses.

The adjusted budget calls for $3,819 for general government, $8,163 for protection of person and property, $700 for health and sanitation, $3,000 for bonds, $6,000 for sewer utility, $16,500 for streets and lights, $1,500 for recreation and parks, $800 for city and $4,000 for donations and unclassified items.

The board anticipates about $25,000 in revenues other than taxes, leaving $19,482 to be raised by taxes in the village. Other tax bills levied on village residents are $21,729 for school and county purposes and $28,918 for school purposes, making the total levy in the village $70,131. The assessed valuation of village properties is $1,348,679, which, taxed at $52 per $1,000 amounts to $70,131.
